Pledges amounting to $212,500 were raised for the support of the Newton Protestant Churches in 1949 through the efforts of some 1000 laymen canvassers participating in the United Church Canvass and ringing some 1500 doorbells in the city-wide effort.

Would Use Meter Revenue For Areas

The Newton Taxpayers' Association with the assistance of Representative Howard Whitmore, has filed a bill allowing cities and towns which have installed parking meters to use the meter revenue for the purchase and care of off-street parking areas where such lots are in a business zone and are adjacent to a parking meter installation.

Citing the need for additional off-street parking areas in the shopping centers of Newton, Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., Executive Secretary, said the directors of the Association did not believe the general taxpayer alone should support the entire cost of this construction and maintenance.

We have made a beginning in Newton Corner, West Newton and Newtonville, Muther said, but Newton Corner, Newton Centre and Newton Highlands are plagued by inadequate parking space which leads to slow traffic, diagonal parking and the actual avoidance of these areas by the shopping motorist at certain times of the day.

The alternative to having the auto driver, the user, pay some of the necessary charges is to assess the abutting stores, or other businesses in the district for the cost of the off-street parking areas, to charge the general taxpayer, or to split the charges in some equitable fashion, Muther said.

Most of the land which would be desirable for off-street parking areas is expensive, continued Muther, so since it will be up to the city sooner or later to find the remedy, it would seem to be only right and proper to make some provisions to help the city finance this inevitable cost.

Don't Gamble with your Family's Safety

A legal flaw in your arrangements for your family's welfare after your passing may result in heavy loss for those whom you want to protect.

Such a defect may exist without your knowing it: a result, for instance, of new laws enacted since your will was made.

Don't take that chance with your family's future. The smaller your estate, the less able will they be to endure necessary losses resulting from legal technicalities you never heard of.

Make sure your beneficiaries will be legally safe. Your lawyer's fee for that assurance will be a highly profitable investment in family protection. See him without delay.

An Easy Way To Meet Tax Payments

The Co-operative Banks of Massachusetts are performing a service to the home owners of the state that until within a few years would not have been considered possible! They accept from their 140,000 borrowers monthly, payments for taxes on their homes, which, when tax-time comes, amounts to enough to pay the assessment.

This innovation has met with complete and unanimous approval, by home-owner borrowers and by Tax Collectors and town and city Treasurers alike. No longer does the taxpayer wonder where in the world money is coming from to pay the tax on his home; no longer does the Tax Collector stand at his counter and meet, greet and argue with hundreds of co-operative bank borrowers.

Now the home owner takes his tax-bill into his bank, which has the money and pays it, perhaps with hundreds of others. Now the Tax Collector gets one check from the bank, with a statement of the tax-bills included; and they all like it.

This year the total thus paid to cities and towns was rising $13,000,000, and it increases from year to year as the banks grow in size and their borrowers increase in number.

Locally the co-operative banks paid $365,750 on 1,754 properties in Newton.

One Day a Year - Not Enough

One day a year is not enough to dedicate to Mother. Mother is not the only one in the family that we love the most, she is also the one that does the most for us. She is very busy now. She did a large amount of cooking last week to prepare the holiday dinner. She is working hard accumulating all the Christmas gifts. She will have a quantity of culinary exercise in making all of the Yuletide comestibles.

Therefore, let us dedicate our very own Mothers Day next Sunday and take her out for dinner. It will make her very happy not only for the thoughtfulness but it will be a relief from planning and hard work.

Glaring Lights

When you are driving at night be considerate of your fellow motorists. Don't be one of the individuals that insist on shining their high beam whether in the city traffic or in the country. Of course the high beam is a help. But there is a time and place for everything. Be considerate!

The blinding glare of your headlights can cause many a disastrous night accident. Most drivers are not deliberately mean about it but they forget this courtesy of night driving. You must school yourself to cooperate concerning this hazard. After the automobile has passed you don't forget that they can still get this terrific glare in their rear view mirror. Dim your lights! Save lives!

Thrill Of Foreign Cruise Leaves Pleasant Memories

By JANE MULLINEAUX

Whether you are going on your first cruise or your one-hundred and first, if for only one week or for all winter, the terrific excitement of sailing with all the bon voyages and the lure of the foreign ports will never cease to thrill you.

As the tugs slowly maneuver the majestic ship out into the stream your numb fingers loosen their grasp from the rail and you make your way to the welcomed warmth of the lounge. As the pilot is dropped the huge ship becomes a thing of life.

A day or so later you will be relaxing in the sun or splashing in the pool. The sun is getting brighter and hotter. The handsome ships officers have donned their whites. Up on the sports deck you can hear the "oohs" and "ahs" of the shuffleboard players and the "oh, darn" at the point lost to your opponent at deck tennis. By the time the ship arrives at the first port of call, you will know almost everyone on board. Just throw a group of people together at sea and see how fast they become acquainted. What a way to spend a winter vacation!

You will marvel at the agility of the black diving boys in the Caribbean ports, with their dark faces so stuffed with coins, that they look like pouchy chipmunks' cheeks, shouting, "Hey, boss... don't be cheap... half dollar!" You will see fascinating flying fish glide over the bow waves in the tropical water.

They are really interesting to watch. A main interest to everyone on board is the sumptuous cuisine. It is a true gourmet's paradise. Imagine eating all your favorite dishes three times a day and in between too, when the stewards serve you bullion in the mid-morning and tea and pastry in the mid-afternoon. Your next thought perhaps, when you think of food is, "Will I get seasick?" Chances are you won't; but even if you are in the unfortunate category of non-sailors you will forget all about it once you get ashore.

On waking up in the morning, or perhaps dragging yourself out after a festive costume ball the night before, picture the breath taking view of a gorgeous sunrise with a tropical Isle in the distance, which you are slowly approaching. It is a little grey and almost dark. You see a faint glow in the east and then a sunburst of breath taking fire red and gold. When you are ashore you will discover that the native markets and shops are filled with treasures, almost like Alibab's cave. Depending on the port you are in you may find exotic perfumes, Swiss watches, rich embroideries, Panama hats, Delft, alligator bags, teakwood, delicate ceramics, and numerous other eye catching merchandise. When you have seen all the wonderful spots of interest you may have time for a quick swim in the tangy salt of the tropical water. It is the most beautiful shade of transparent blue-green you will find anywhere.

The sea is very fine and calm, the kind that clings between your toes long after the day is over. A pleasant torture! The blaring side walk cafes and the fabulous night clubs with daring floor shows will fill your memories with lingering reminiscences. The entertainment on ship board adds to your enjoyment. Active sports for the more ambitious or luxurious sun bathing and snoozing in your deck chair, while the salt air plays havoc with your appetite. After the movies you may want to take a turn around the deck or dance on the aft deck. Ever try dancing up hill? Not a rough sea you understand, just a gentle roll that may catch you off balance. More fun!

You are in a small world all your own. What the neighbors are doing back home, the newspapers, and even your own parents and children you left, seem in their own way quite remote. In addition to "collecting" friends you have been collecting souvenirs. Nearing the last port your cabin looks like a native bazaar. Perhaps you will have a bottle of choice liqueur on your dresser, a native hat hung over the arm of the chair, and a box of priceless china wrapped carefully in a Spanish newspaper shoved far back under your bunk for safe keeping. You survey it all with painful pleasure, wondering how you will ever be able to pack it enough to even get ashore with it.

When you sight the Statue of Liberty you are still trying to remember the name of that funny little street near the capitol building, or the steps to the last native dance you saw. You are madly searching for your "best" friends who promised to give you their addresses, so you can be ing involved in serious accidents and traffic tie-ups."

The rules as listed by the Chief are:

1. When starting out on ice or snow, get the "feel" of the road surface. Test your braking and acceleration when clear of the other cars.

2. Reduce speed when road surfaces are snowy or icy. Remember that it takes 3 to 12 times more distance to stop on snow or ice than on dry pavement.

3. Keep snow and ice off the outside of the windshield as well as fog and frost inside. Be sure your defroster and wipers are working. Watch out for pedestrians.

4. Never warm up your car in a closed garage. Carbon monoxide poisoning is dangerous. Do not check floor boards and exhaust system for leaks. Examine heater for possible defects.

5. When treacherous snow or ice prevail on the street, use steel tire chains. They reduce braking distance for cars and trucks from 40 to 70 per cent, and provide "go" traction often needed.

6. If possible, have tires with good treads. They provide better stopping ability on both dry and wet pavement, but do not depend on even new rubber treads on packed snow or ice. Tests also show that "rubber tire chains," while nice and quiet, actually skid further than bare tires on ice. So, don't skid yourself.

"In Northern states the traffic accident death rate goes up 24 to 53 per cent higher than the summer rates during snow and ice months," Chief Purcell said.

"Now, with more automobiles on the road than last winter, every driver must exert extra caution, both to his own driving and to the other fellows. If drivers will do this, and stick to the rules listed, we know that we can continue to reduce unnecessary traffic accidents and tie-ups this winter," he concluded.

sure and look them up when you visit the big city. As you reach your hand in your pocket for your handkerchief because your nose is so numb that it is running, you pull out a few stray native coins that didn't find their way back to some vendor.

So this is your vacation of winter cruising to dream about all year until you can go on your next one!

Doctors' Wives Hear Interesting Talks

An interesting meeting of the Suffolk District Medical Auxiliary (wives of the Suffolk District doctors) was held Wednesday afternoon, December 2, at the Boston Medical Library.

Mrs. Thomas H. Lannan of Chestnut Hill presided. There were two speakers. The first, Hugh Wilkerson, M.D., who spoke on diabetic detection. This is a movement which originated in Boston and has spread all over the country. By this method of early detection it is hoped that the toll of diabetes may be greatly reduced.

The second speaker was Dr. Elizabeth Wilson, Ph.D., an eminent statistician, who spoke on her study of the present British system of medical practice. Dr. Wilson has recently returned from the British Isles and had many interesting and startling facts to relate. She said that the British National Health Service is definitely a one-man show. Mr. Maurice Bevan. He has taken over 90 per cent of the hospitals in England, and this gives him almost dictatorial powers over all hospital personnel. He admits that his decision rests not on whether or not a man is a good doctor, but on whether he is a bad influence in the service. Dr. Wilson's talk was enlightening.

THE LAW CONTAINS careful provisions for the protection of the persons and property of those who are unable to take care of themselves, but these are quite technical in form and no care should be taken without competent legal advice. If the terms of the statute are not exactly followed then the whole proceeding may well be void as contrary to the rights of the individual.

"We are naturally disappointed in the Campaign results," Mr. Hampton states. "To miss the Newton goal by $30,000 and the Greater Boston goal by over $800,000 means that less service can be rendered in 1949 by our Red Feather agencies. I am still hoping that many more thousands of dollars will come in both in Newton and in Greater Boston, to help reduce the deficit and make possible a larger service by our agencies than would now appear evident."

A bright spot in the Newton Campaign is that 60 units made or exceeded their team goals. These units and their leaders are as follows: Nonantum, Team 6, J. E. A guardian is a person appointed by the court to handle the affairs of his ward and acquires no title to the property but only a power to manage it. Guardians are appointed when necessary over minors, insane persons or spendthrifts.

The parent has a natural right to be appointed guardian of his minor child and will be appointed when necessary to protect the property of the child, unless in some extraordinary case where the court finds that the parents are unfit. In the ordinary case it is quite unnecessary to have a legal guardian for a minor as he is made to take care of what money or other property he has, but if the minor has an interest in real estate or as legatee under some will it may be necessary.

Where a person becomes insane it is obvious that some person must be appointed to protect him and his property and this may be done on application to the Probate Court and proper evidence of his incapacity and notice as required by law, and this is done usually only after he has been duly committed as an insane person.

Another kind of guardian is the guardian ad litem, who is appointed solely to represent his ward in specific litigation in court, as in the case of a minor or even of future and unascertained interests under a will. Guardians ad litem are most commonly appointed to examine the accounts of trustees filed in the Probate Court and protect the rights of beneficiaries who are not otherwise represented, and where a minor is injured, action is brought in his behalf by his father suing as his "next friend," who is similar to a guardian litem.

All guardians should be disinterested and have no stake whatever personally in the estate which they are appointed to care for, the only seeming exception being the appointment of a parent as guardian for his minor child when his natural interest in his own offspring is presumed to guarantee that he will be faithful to his trust.

Thanksgiving Day Service Is Held

A Thanksgiving Day service was held by First Church of Christ Scientist, of Newton in the church edifice Thanksgiving Day morning at 10:45 o'clock.

The service was opened by the congregation singing Hymn No. 342 in the Christian Science Hymnal.

Then Wallace G. Strathern, the first reader, read the Thanksgiving Day Proclamation by the President of the United States. This was followed by the scriptural selection after which the congregation united in silent prayer which was followed by the Lord's Prayer with its spiritual interpretation from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Hymn 324 was then sung by the congregation. Then followed the lesson-sermon especially prepared for Thanksgiving Day. The subject of this lesson-sermon was "Thanksgiving," and had for the Golden Text: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High" (Psalms 50:14).

After the responsive reading which consisted of passages taken from the Scriptures, Mrs. Ernestine M. Kyle, the second reader, read the citations from the Bible, while Mr. Strathern, the first reader, read correlative passages from Science and Health.

A solo was sung by Mrs. Marion M. Haynes after the lesson-sermon had been concluded. Testimonies of gratitude for healings and benefits received during the past year filled the time given to this part of the service.

The closing hymn was No. 374. The first reader then read the "scientific statement of being" from the Christian Science textbook (p. 468), and the correlative passages from I John 3:1-3.

Trail Tales

By Joe Patenaude

Where is that snow? It was here yesterday and now it's gone. But there'll be more! Even with all the warnings I've been giving you drifters, I too was surprised to see the snow falling. If you haven't got your skis ready yet, you'd better get on the ball or you'll be left behind when that first trek to the mountains starts.

You'll have to hurry, but you don't want to forget anything. Here's a check list that may help you remember everything—Skis: check finish on tops, bottoms, tips, and heels; lacker and wax; edges (still time to have these put on); bindings (check cables, clamps, etc.); Poles check for cracks if wooden; leather straps; baskets. Boots: soften and waterproof; check laces, eyes, and buckles. When these are all taken care of, you're all set to go. By the way, if you have any questions about how to do this here wintering in a lacquerin' a postcard to me in care of the Graphic will get you an answer in a jiffy. And if you want to know where to have those repairs well done close to home, just check the Graphic any week from now on.

An interesting note on the popularity of Bob Johnson's Indoor Ski School is the fact that he has a group of students who come all the way from Rhode Island every Saturday. News of a good thing sure gets around! Here's a note to remember when you're buying that new ski outfit. Waterproof is windproof and vice versa so the first rule is to look for a real close weave. Hold a single thickness of each material up to the light before you choose. Insist on 100% wool, or long combed cotton, or nylon. All can be made water and wind resistant, but the first two allow body moisture to escape more easily. Of course nylon is sleek-looking. Take your pick.

Saw still another new-type ski binding the other day. A salesman was showing this one to "Al" Rogan and, believe me, it's really different. Two large flat-headed screws are put into each ski and these slide into sockets attached to the sole and heel of your boot. A spring clasp holds them in place until a rather strong force is exerted. The entire binding is hidden under the boot, no metal clasps, no cables, no straps, no nothing. It does raise the boot about a quarter of an inch off the ski. Whether that's good or bad remains to be seen. In fact, I'd like to hear more about these before I would consider trying them. But whether practical or not, they're interesting. I don't know if "Al" kept a sample or not, but if he did, it sure is worth the trip down to see it.

I'm sure in a hurry for the snow so I can report on the do-in's of Newton skiers up north. While waiting, I'll be at this same stand selling cigars next week. See you then.

Alex Miller introduced in a fine way the speaker, Winfield Swartz, a New Yorker, who has spent some two years in India. His subject was "Economic, Political, and Village Life in India."

He spoke about the wonderful influence Mahatma Gandhi had, especially upon the poor people. Although the people did not understand him they would follow him anywhere. When Gandhi died all his personal, worldly belongings could have been packed in a suit case. His fasting influenced the poor and in time the people became so concerned that he won out for what he seemed to think was right.

Communism in China has a far greater hold than in India. The missionary with his schools and teachings for the right is making great strides in parts of India. Mr. Schwartz is an able speaker and thoroughly knows his subject.

Girl Scouts Aid Christmas Seal Preparations Here

Girl Scouts flocked to the office of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association last week to assist members of the Newton women's clubs in completing preparations for the 42nd annual Christmas seal sale. Sealing, sorting, typing and packing into mail sacks 23,000 envelopes containing Christmas seals to be mailed to Newton residents, the volunteers finished the task which they had begun on September 27 under the direction of Mrs. Charles H. Clark of Newton, seal sale general chairman.

With two daily shifts of about 10 volunteers each, the seal sale work has been carried on by 46 members of the women's clubs and 40 Girl Scouts representing eight Newton troops. Funds from the sale will be used by the local tuberculosis association to continue its rehabilitation services for Newton's tuberculous patients, its health education and chest X-ray facilities which were introduced in 1946, and the medical research program of the National Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Rudkin Presents 'Bouquet of Books'

A "Bouquet of Books" was presented by Marion Rudkin, well-known reviewer, to the Auburn-dale Woman's Club. Her keen, lively comments, sense of humor and dramatics, humaneness and vivid descriptions made the personality of the reviewer as interesting as the books reviewed.

In the realm of fiction she particularly recommended "The Big Fisherman" by Lloyd Douglass because of its fine, inspirational and uplifting content. Its historical setting in Egypt, Rome and Arabia makes it apropos of today. "Remembrance" by Carl Sandburg includes five parts, she said, a prologue, epilogue and three complete novels. The first novel is the story of the pilgrims from 1607, the second covers the period of the Revolution and the third the civil war. The epilogue concludes with a discussion by participants of the second World War. Three hundred and fifty years of U. S. history are covered. For an intriguing murder mystery, "Dinner at Antoine's" by Frances Keyes was underscored by Mrs. Rudkin. A group of eight people gather for dinner at the world famous eating place. Within two days, one of the eight is found dead. Each chapter deals with one person at the table and points an accusing finger. The guilty one is the person you least suspect. Several historical novels were included in Mrs. Rudkin's recommendations. "The Hearth and the Eagle," by Anya Seton catches the atmosphere of old Maribhead. "The Running of the Tide" by Esther Forbes gives the history of Salem.

For non-fiction Mrs. Rudkin recommended "John Goffes Mill" by George Woodbury, "Green Mountain Farm" by Elliott Merrick and "Northern Farm" by Henry Beston. In the field of travel, "Green Seas and White Ice" by Mrs. Donald MacMillan, "Our Summer with the Eskimos" by the Helmericks are outstanding, she said.

Tea was served following the talk. Pourers were Mrs. Raymond E. Perkins, and Mrs. William A. Jarvis.

DINING with JANE and BILL

To The Toddlers' Taste
Every baby enjoys eating, and he will continue as long as he is happy and too much isn't expected of him for his age. If his pleasure in eating is encouraged, he will learn to like a variety of foods.

Parents want their children to grow up strong and healthy; they follow recommendations rigidly in planning the child's meals; and when a toddler dawdles or refuses to eat, too often only psychological factors are given consideration, while the food itself may be responsible. You can help your child in many ways. Read over, and study the following points.

Is the food too hot or too cold? The child's mouth and throat are much more sensitive than adults'. Lukewarm foods are welcome and even milk and desserts are preferred at room temperature. Ice cream may be the exception.

Is it strong flavored? Sense of smell and taste are very acute and mild flavors and odors are preferred. A minimum of seasoning and sugar is best.

Is it a mixture? A child likes plain foods, that he can see clearly and he may tend to "pick at" mixed foods. Even his favorite food may be refused if it is combined with sauce or another food.

Is it sticky, dry, tough or stringy? Puddings thinned with extra milk so they are smooth and creamy are preferred to thicker mixtures. Mashed potatoes harden as they cool—extra milk will preserve the fluffiness children like. Cooked greens are less stringy when coarsely chopped. Cooked cereal that is not thick is often preferred to dry cereal.

Is it in "bite sized" pieces? Cutting food is a hard task for small hands and a child may refuse a food because he can't manage it. Solid foods should be offered in bite sized pieces, or pieces that can be picked up in the fingers, such as strips of toast, carrot sticks or wedges of raw apple.

Is he allowed to enjoy the food in his own way? Toddlers like to touch and smell and get acquainted with food slowly, so etiquette is out for little folk. Learning to like the food is the important point; manners can wait. This may be messy but it helps to increase interest in the food. As the child grows, he will learn from watching others how to be neat at mealtime.

Is the child tired? Eating is a hard job for little folks. A short rest period before his regular mealtime will put him in the right frame of mind to set about the task. If the child, who appears well and not overtired refuses a meal, his plate should be removed calmly after about a half an hour, and only water given until the next meal.

Is he hungry?—or has he had candy, or a cookie an hour or so ago to take the edge off his appetite?

Is he comfortable? Chair and table should be of right height, feet squarely on the floor or foot rest; a spoon that is the right size for hand and mouth; dishes that don't spill easily; and milk in a small squat glass that he can manage easily—it can be refilled during the meal, for tall glasses are heavy and awkward.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long Clinton of Hartford Conn., are parents of a second child and first daughter, Margaret Ann Clinton, born November 17, at Hartford Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Clinton, 398 Linwood avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonney of Glen Ridge, N. J.

The Rev. Hamilton M. Gifford of the Newtonville Methodist Church, spoke on "Taking Your Religion Seriously" on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Junior High Fellowship of the Newtonville Methodist Church attended a devotional service at the Morgan Memorial Chapel Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibbs Goodman (Lois Roskam) 18 Willow street, are parents of a daughter, Victoria Goodman, born November 16, at the Richardson House, Boston. Mr. and Mrs. I. Edward Roskam of Forest Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goodman of Boston are the grandparents.

Kiwanis Club

Rev. Leslie H. Johnson, minister of the Newton Methodist church, told fellow members at the Newton Kiwanis Club's meeting last Wednesday about the "Inspiring Experiences of a Grateful Heart at Thanksgiving." "Thanksgiving," the speaker declared, "is a daily habit of the human family's happiest members." The afflicted, the halt, the lame and the blind, he continued, are among those who most frequently thank God for His blessings and the privilege of living in His wonderful world.

Pointing out that a loyal group of patriots, opening their meeting with a prayer humbly asking the Almighty's Divine guidance, then proceeded to draw up the Constitution of the United States, Rev. Johnson added that the United Nations Assembly's refusal to request Divine aid and its utter lack of accomplishment after long tireless effort, is causing world wide comment.

Rev. Lester H. Johnson's address was voted the Newton Kiwanis Club's best this year.

Newton Highlands

Rev. Frederic Groetsma of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church preached at Middlebury College last Sunday November 28. In his absence the guest minister was his brother-in-law, Dr. David McKeith, who is Executive Vice-President of the American Board of Congregational Churches and who has recently moved to Newton from Hartford, Connecticut.

A Vesper Musicale at four o'clock Sunday, December 5th in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church will feature organ works by Marcello, Bach, McKinley, Delamarter and Reger with Harold Schwab as organist. Tenor arias from The Creation and The Messiah will be sung by Norman Dow, Tenor. The First Movements of the Mozart Piano Concerto in C minor, and the Beethoven Third Piano Concerto with organ accompaniment will be performed by June and Philip Robert, Pianists, with Harold Schwab as organist.

Two Alarm Fire At Highlands Thursda

A 2 alarm fire at the New England Concrete Pipe Company, 99 Needham Street, Newton Highlands, Thursday morning resulted in damage estimated at $10,000 to the office building of the company.

The fire followed an explosion when the fuel oil tank was being filled with gasoline by the driver of a truck who said he had checked with an employee and had been directed to the outlet into which he was filling the tank.

Following two more explosions, a second alarm was sounded by Chief John L. Keating. The office employees escaped from the building, leaving their personal possessions. A salesman, Robert Gill, of 295 Cypress Street, Newton Centre was cut by flying glass and Fireman Joseph Lacroix of Engine 6 received an injury to his shoulder. The driver of the truck drove it away from the building when the explosion occurred.

The first alarm was sounded from Box 653 at 8:40 A. M., followed by a second alarm at 8:50. The first call brought out Engines 3 of Newton Centre, 7 of Newton Upper Falls, 9 of Chestnut Hill, and Ladder 2 of Newton Highlands. Reinforcements brought out by the second alarm consisted of Engine 1 and Ladder 3 of Newton Corner, Engine 4 and Ladder 1 of Newoville and Engine 6 of Newton Lower Falls.

Companies from Needham, Wellesley, Watertown and Waltham covered in while the Newton apparatus was fighting the fire.

which was built for the Seller, was sold for Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Jones of Biddeford, Maine, to Mr. and Mrs. Haig Sahagian of Brookline, who will occupy.

Bernard O'Donnell, 998 Beacon street, student at the New England Conservatory of Music, will play in a Concert of Chamber Music, under the direction of Roger Voinin of the Faculty, in Recital Hall, December 15, at 5 o'clock.

A Shopping I Would Go!

By PATRICIA PATENAUDE

Here it is! December has once again made its appearance amidst holly, red ribbon, and "White Christmas". And if you've been watching the calendar then you know there are only 19 Shopping days to buy your gifts, plan your festive dinner, and pick out the best tree around. With Christmas balls so expensive, many of us are resorting to other ways of decorating the tree. Stringing popcorn has always been fun for the youngsters and it fills up lots of space on the tree. Candy canes are nice and serve two purposes, decorations and goodies for guests. Happily colored paper can be devised into gay chains and Ivory soap flakes, melted, can trim the edges of the branches like real snow. Yes, you can have a bright, wonderful Christmas tree without bursting the already tired budget. Ask some friends over, let the children help, and you will have a good tree and a good time.

Each and every detail on these dresses spells perfection. Four tiny pearl buttons down the front and a beguiling sash in back add to the daintiness. All the grandmas and aunts will exclaim with pleasure when they see their favorite tot in her pretty new dress. You will be greatly surprised at the low price of $3.00. I can't stress too much, however, that "first come, first served." Stearns also has these dresses in plain blue or pink. Drop in to Stearns today or tomorrow. You'll be delighted.

I couldn't celebrate the holidays without a box of this delicious candy. All the flavors are so rich and good. If you haven't given your family the enjoyment of Hilliard's ribbon candy, then now's the time. Tuck some in the young folks' stockings, or give a box to mom. THE BALDWIN FAMILY

Who was in The Regent Shop yesterday but daddy Baldwin, sneaking in his Christmas shopping. When I arrived he was busy trying out the Baby Coos doll that cries when you squeeze it, coos when you hug it, and sobs when you spank it. This doll was indeed marvelous! It had magic skin and a head of unbreakable plastic. (Knowing the ways of five year old Pam this latter fact was most important.) A complete and adorable wardrobe made the doll even more desirable, and for only $6.95. Next in line was three year old Peter, who had a love for hammers and pounding. To keep this mischief maker safe and busy, daddy Baldwin chose a peg board, with pegs, hammer, stool and table, all for $3.95. Now came a present for mom. Daddy Baldwin was wondering what to give when he noticed a stunning black raincoat. Made by Rain and Shedder, it was lined in a handsome plaid and buttoned up snug and warm. An inner pocket concealed a folding umbrella to help chase those raindrops away. Priced at just $29.95 it was a gift well tailored in price as well as in style. And so daddy Baldwin's day was a success. With packages up to his chin he left The Regent Shop looking like Santa himself, and bound for home.

Canvass-

year and their pledges are slow in being returned; the rest represent the few homes in which no one responded to the canvasser's ring yesterday afternoon."

The United Canvass Committee consisting of Lucius E. Thayer and William V. M. Fawcett, co-chairmen, Edmund S. Whitten, publicity; Jess D. Traylor and Rev. Richard P. McClintock, executives, have been at work since last May in preparation for "Say YES to your Faith" day and is gratified by the splendid response. Highlights of the campaign were laymen's sermons in 17 of the participating churches on Sunday, November 14th and a dinner and rally attended by the canvassers at the Totem Pole, Norumbega Park on Monday, November 15th. From those two events and with the aid of concentrated publicity, each church worked out the details of its own local campaign.

At the Church of the Messiah, which reported an increase of 10 per cent over 1947, the Rev. Richard P. McClintock spoke in the morning sermon entitled, "Song of the Offerings," and based on Psalm 20, "The Lord hear thee in the day of trouble. . . Send thee help from the sanctuary . . . remember all thy offerings." He said in part:

"Some folks would shudder if they sensed the real truth between the lines of this song of the Offerings. Chances are those to whom it is a threat have never thought that there might be any connection between their part in the regular support of God's visible work on earth and their own need of God's help in the day of trouble. 'The Lord hear thee in the day of trouble, remember all thy offerings' is just an ancient way of saying that you get out of God's church just about what you put into it. Many hitch-hikers on God's highway of promise look for all the blessings to be given and feel that their own contribution will never be missed. Those who year after year promise to mail their pledge card directly the next day and then do nothing whatever about it except to make the same bald statement the next year should wonder how the church continues to stand in the community ready to serve the community with only haphazard support from some and constant neglect from others. How can the Lord remember the offerings of those who make no offering!

"Our church budgets are so little when compared to other things for which we spend our money. The church budget is terribly out of line in proportion to the importance which the church's work holds in the community. The cost of the lighting plant which was installed on the super-cruiser DeMolnes recently commissioned at South Boston would support the work of all our Newton Protestant churches 'as well as care for their benevolences too. And we well know the national picture, that people spend 2.5 billions which go up in smoke and drink up another 3.2 billions worth of liquor, while they support their churches and charities at the ridiculous little sum of .04 billions. Just think of it, if each family in our church (each family, not individual) gave the equivalent of four packs of cigarettes a week, our budget would be over-subscribed! If you feel money is a little tight because of inflation, ask yourself which will do the most good for you and your children and your children's children; four packs of cigarettes to go up in smoke and temporary self-indulgence, or the Christian Church which gives character and stands for the security of our community?"

"If you have as much money as you had last year, then why try to hang on to it? As a community fund speaker said recently, 'Remember you can't take your gold with you, and if you could it would melt!' As you sign your pledge for 1949 remember the song of the Offerings . . . 'remember all thy offerings, accept thy burnt sacrifices. Grant thee thy heart's desire, and fulfil all thy mind!'"

Boston Symphony consume a great deal of his time, and in addition to this he is also the symphony's assistant conductor. He is also responsible for making many of the arrangements for the Berkshire Festival, and the summer school, and in the summertime he not only plays in orchestral and chamber music concerts, but teaches and rehearses several hours each day. All this leaves little time for recital work, and these who plan to attend the Zimble concert are indeed fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing Mr. Burin in this capacity.

The sinfonietta is composed entirely of musicians from the string section of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Last year they numbered 15. There will be 16 this year, and the new member is Joseph de Pasquale, the symphony's new first desk violinist. Emil Kernsand, first violinist of the sinfonietta, also acts as conductor, or rather as leader, for the sinfonietta plays without a regular conductor. Mr. Zimble himself plays the cello. The most outstanding feature of this group is the marvelous precision they have managed to achieve, and the concert promises to be in every way comparable in quality to a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

growth of the cranberries, many children could give this information being familiar with Cape Cod. This involved science.

The glasses were collected from the entire school and oranges were given by the children. The cranberries and sugar were purchased from the Service Fund of the Junior Red Cross. The materials used were fifteen quarts of cranberries, two dozen oranges and the sugar.

Children brought receptacles and grinders from home. Waxed paper and red cellophane were cut and tied over the finished relish—all of which added up to very attractive favors which helped to brighten the holidays of many a disabled veteran.

Address-

As the A.V.C. was the most vociferous organization in the City calling for Veterans housing, it is especially appropriate that it is now leading the veterans of Newton in expressing their appreciation for the building of homes for over 400 families in the first and largest development of its kind in this area. In line with the American Veterans Committee motto, "Citizens First, Veterans Second," Mayor Lockwood will speak on the topic, "What can the Veteran Do for Newton?"

The Chapter is also sponsoring a Christmas party to be held at the West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospital and plans to donate a Television set for the use of the patients. As books and magazines are badly needed for the disabled veterans, those attending the December 7th meeting are asked to bring with them any good reading matter they can spare. The Committee in charge of the Pearl Harbor Anniversary gathering includes Walter Diets, Jr., Chairman; Vincent Maloney; Fred Fisher, Jr.; Robert Evans; Richard Massel; and Donald L. Daniels.

holds as its first duty the provision of care to all in the community who need it, regardless of their ability to pay. Mr. Powell explained, however, that because it is costing the hospital twice as much today to care for every patient as it did before the war, every patient who can afford it will be asked to pay a bill that will cover the cost of the services he receives.

The new plan, which increases rates for ward and private-inward patients to $11.00; for semi-private patients to $12.00 and for private room patients to $13.00. $19.00 a day institutes as well as a new lowered schedule of charges for certain special services. Among those reduced are many charges for the use of the operating room, anesthesia and x-ray, etc.

Although ward service rates, always provided at less than cost for those in lower income groups, have risen from $8.50 to $11.00 a day, every ward service patient is entitled to receive a $2.00 per day discount paid by his Community Chest and in addition will receive a further Community Chest discount if unable to pay any other portion of his bill.

department, general sanitation, and various other health matters would put Massachusetts even farther ahead in the front ranks of the nation as far as public health is concerned," Senator Lee remarked after filing the huge report. Both the senator and Rep. George W. Dean of Oakham, vice-chairman, have been instrumental in obtaining approval of health improvement legislation in the state.

Senator Lee explained that the remainder of the proposed legislation calls for closer control of out-of-state milk, cream, slaughtering, handling of shellfish meat, sanitary food, licensing of common victuallers, sale of poisons, labeling dangerous industrial chemicals, and nuisance abatement. The legislation also includes bills providing for the care of premature infants, prohibiting the employment in schools of persons with communicable tuberculosis, regulating physical examinations of school children, and qualifying the training and experience of the state health commissioner.

With Senator Lee on the Special Commission are Rep. Dean vice-chairman, Rep. Joseph D. Rivest of Northampton, Rep. Fred C. Harrington of Everett, Dr. Henry D. Chadwick of Waltham, Dr. L. singers from the voice department will open the program, playing unusual and less familiar carols from "The Nativity," a Mystery Play written by Linda Ekman and Elizabeth Fyffe.

Following this, old familiar carols will be played in the Elizabeth Fyffe Recital Hall, which will be filled with members of the Junior and Senior Orchestras and students from the clarinet and flute departments—the latter instruments adding much color and charm to the music.

The prayer from Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck, sung by a young voice student and accompanied by strings, will bring the carolling to a close.

Parents, friends, and neighbors are cordially invited to drop in to hear the carol music. However, because the space is limited, it will be necessary to secure tickets of admission. These are free and may be had by applying at the school office.

Sherman Paper Products To Market Machine Made Jumbo Bag.

A new improved type of large paper bag similar to those formerly made by hand, is now being manufactured on a revolutionary new machine just completed by Sherman Paper Products of Newton Upper Falls.

The new machine will manufacture flat-type bags with sealed bottoms and ends, by a high-speed continuous process, effecting substantial savings in costs.

The chief revolutionary feature of the new machine will be an accordion-pleating operation, which will produce bags up to 60 inches high, and up to 24 feet in circumference, delivered in a folded form 6 inches wide. Another new innovation includes special methods of sealing and cutting. The accordion-pleating principle will permit easier operating, since the bag can be snapped open to full dimension in a single operation. The flat-type construction will permit any individual bag size to be used for a variety of product shapes and sizes. Another innovation of the product is an air vent in each corner which permits the escape of pocketed air, but does not affect the dust-proof qualities of the bag. Patent applications are pending on various features of the bag, the machine, and the method of operation.

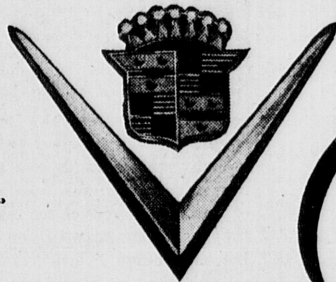

The new bags will be sold exclusively through the paper jobbers who now distribute other Sherman industrial packaging products. The chief immediate use of the new bags will include furniture, basket and major-appliance industries. It is expected, however, that the economies obtained through the new, high-speed process will open up new uses for these large bags for many other packaging and protective purposes.

Memorial Service To Be Held Sunday

At the meeting of the Newton Lodge of Elks on Monday evening it was announced that the annual Memorial Service will be held on Sunday evening, December 5 at 8 o'clock. Thomas P. O'Neil, Jr., will be the speaker. A musical program of piano, violin and vocal selections will be presented.

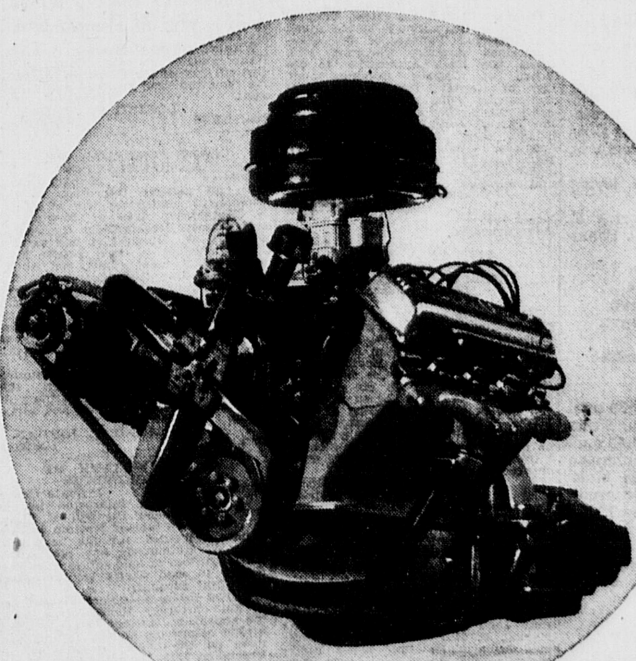

Exalted Ruler Kenneth A. Stiles conducted the meeting. Esteemed Leading Knight Thomas L. McEnaney reported that the Social and Community Welfare Committee has completed plans for the annual Christmas parties for the patients at the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children, residents of the City Infirmary and of St. Raphael's Home for the Blind. A caravan will be formed at Elks' Home on Sunday, Dec. 19, at 2 p.m., for the parties. An Army jeep driven by Sgt. Louis Nahreau of the Army Recruiting Station in Boston, will lead the parade of members to the three institutions where the group will be met by city officials. Entertainment will be in charge of Leon H. Mayer.

Cadillac

PRESENTS ITS CREATIVE MASTERPIECE...

The world's newest engine—for the world's finest car!

White Side Wall Tires available at additional cost.

No Cadillac announcement has ever been more significant than the one which appears on this page. For, this year, Cadillac presents its creative masterpiece—a wholly new V-type eight-cylinder engine—which is, beyond all doubt, the highest development yet attained in automotive power plants. * This great power plant has been twelve years in the building—for basic development work started in 1936. It has many unusual qualities which set it apart from all other creations of its kind. It is far more alert, powerful and responsive to the throttle—yet it affords an increase in gasoline economy of approximately twenty per cent. And the manner of its performance actually challenges the imagination. It is liquid smooth; it is quick and eager beyond all experience; yet the power application is so effortless that the driver is scarcely aware of the engine's existence. The car seems almost to move by automatic propulsion. * Even experienced Cadillac owners must put aside all previous conceptions of performance when they drive the 1949 Cadillac. It is a revelation—from silken start to silken stop. * There are, of course, many other advancements in addition to the history-making engine. There is new beauty in the front ensemble; there is a newly-designed, more attractive instrument panel, with all driving controls at your finger tips; and throughout the chassis and body will be found those characteristic refinements which result from Cadillac's unceasing search for perfection. * But the big Cadillac story, for 1949, is performance. It is not only the world's new standard—it is beyond the world's current conception.

PAINT!

DID you know that you can make a room look longer or shorter, wider or narrower by placing the right colors in the right places? . . . That you can raise or lower the apparent height of a ceiling by proper application of color?

If remodeling costs too much—try painting. You'll be surprised what a little paint and color in the hands of an expert can do for your home.

Photographic Service Division In Schools Doing Valuable Work

If the old Chinese adage, "A picture is worth a thousand words," be true, the children of Newton are indeed fortunate.

The Photographic Service Division of the Audio-Visual Program in the Newton schools is doing a most valuable work. William L. Winston, with the aid of boys in the Photography Club of the High School, is building up a library of slides and films on about every subject of interest to the city's school children. Neatly boxed and tabulated are hundreds of 2x2 slides, some in black and white, but many in color. These, as well as moving picture films of local scenes and interest, are available for a four-fold program: to teach the children, to aid the teachers, to inform the parents, and to create in the general public greater understanding of the problems and needs of the schools.

There are hundreds of colored slides of Newton scenes, ranging from the City Hall and other public buildings to beauty spots like Echo Bridge. Some of the specific photographic features developed in the schools are as follows: The Cabot School has many scenes to further its safety education; the Clafin shows its student assembly and its "Development of Responsibility" techniques; the Hamilton has filmed a trip of the children to a local dairy plant; the Davis nutrition program has slides showing the purchasing, preparation, and eating of vegetables—photographs taken with the cooperation of a Newton store. Pictures are being filmed showing school activities at all grade levels. These are invaluable aids to the Guidance Program in preparing pupils for advancement to higher schools. A series of color slides showing work in the Newton evening schools was shown at the Fitchburg State Teachers College summer conference. The Newton technique of using pictures as teaching aids has, also, been presented to Boston University classes in Audio-Visual education. The High School has pictures of an educational trip to the House of the Seven Gables in Salem, The Essex Institute, and the Peabody Museum. These are used in English classes to stimulate reading interest. Another series, a technique group, shows how "Doris Newton Makes a Dress" and still another shows the Bowen pupils visiting a Newton paper plant. Last year's successful Newton school radio broadcasts over Station WCRB in Waltham have been filmed in a documentary series. This series, under the direction of Mr. Leo Barry, covers all levels of the public school activities ranging from a Kindergarten program of songs and recitations to a broadcast of "Pinafore" by High School thespians, as well as a program on the administration of the Newton Junior College. One series which emulates procedure followed in the college shows moving pictures in black and white of the Newton football games. These are developed during the weekends following games and are invaluable aids for the coaches and players in their subsequent training. Dance techniques of High School girls have been filmed in color, as has been done at the Hamilton elementary school.

Almost limitless possibilities lie ahead in this interesting field of education. Plans are progressing for still greater coverage of Newton school activities. A valuable by-product of the work is the photographic training obtained by the students who participate.

Newton Wins Annual Game With Brookline

By MARVIN R. GOULD

Before an overflowing crowd of 10,000 ardent fans a fast moving, hard hitting Newton High football squad defeated their arch rival, Brookline, at Dickinson Stadium Newton, by a decisive score of 24-13, Thanksgiving morning.

Five plays after the opening kickoff, Newton scored its first touchdown. Don Evans received for the Newtonites on his own 15 and lugged the pigskin to the 39. An offside penalty against Brookline on the next play put the ball on the Newton 44. Joe Wright crashed off tackle to the visitors' 17 after Frank Tanner fumbled on his own 45 and recovered possession again on his own 46. On the next play Joe Wright went around right end for paydirt. Don Evans' boot for the extra point was blocked. Nearing the end of the first chapter Brookline fought back after receiving a Newton punt on the Garden City's 34. Brookline's Captain Tom Nagi dashed downfield to the Newton 9. Tommy Fay, who incidentally was celebrating his birthday, made the tally after fighting his way to the one foot line on a delayed buck. The kick for the conversion after touchdown by Fay was good. The remainder of the first period and the entire second chapter both teams threatened but neither scored with Newton coming as close as the Brookline one yard line. As time ran out for the period, Brookline led 7-6.

The Garden City men did it in five plays once again as the second half got underway. Joe Wright received the Wealthy Towners' kick on his own 28 and carried to his own 40 yard stripe. Frank Tanner made the opposition's 44 after Wright bucked the line for a one yard gain. Billy Fitzpatrick dashed around end to the 12. After a series of penalties against both sides the ball went into play on the Brookline 15. From this point, Tanner tumbled on a pitchoff from quarterback Ralph Marisano. Tanner's kick for the conversion failed. Then the lucky one came. After this touchdown Tanner kicked off to the Red and Blue as Brookline man received on his own 40, fumbled, Newton's Phil Jepson recovered giving the Orange and Black possession on the Brookline 40. Once again five plays later Huston's Huskies scored on a Barisano to Tanner pass from the 30 yard marker. Don Evans' kick for the extra point was not good.

Late in the fourth canto, Newton took over on downs on its own 36. Frank Tanner went off tackle to the Brookline 46 after a Tanner to Evans pass clicked to the 50. Then Tanner gained the 37 yard line on the Statue of Liberty play that Newton is quite well known for. A Barisano to Furbush pass was good to the one foot line. Barisano scored on a quarterback sneak. Tanner's kick was not good.

With time as an enemy Brookline threw everything in the books at the Newtonites slowly but surely gained ground to the Newton 26. An offside penalty and a clipping penalty against Newton, the officials carried the ball to the Newton 2. Joe Farnsworth crashed off tackle to the 1, then Dick Kirby went around end to paydirt. Place kicking specialist Fay's kick for the conversion was blocked by Newton's substitute end, Birdie Peck.

Brookline 7 0 0 6—13
Predictions of Things to Come

We predict that Warren Huston, Newton's coach, will lead the team to third or fourth place in the Class A contest. We predict that, thanks to Ralph Sanborn, Newton will still have an athletic field second to none. We predict that Newton will be defeated by Malden, Brockton and perhaps one other team.

More Than Three Hundred Members Attend 75th Anniversary of Grace Church

On Sunday, November 28, the Grace Episcopal Church, Newton celebrated the 75th anniversary of the first service held in the present church building at 73 Eldredge street.

More than 300 members of the parish were present and the rector, Rev. Robert W. Woodroffe, Jr. devoted his sermon to the history of the parish.

Grace Church as an organized and incorporated parish had its start in the year 1856, when services were held in Union Hall on the corner of Centre and Washington streets. Three years later the congregation built and moved into a small Gothic church building on the corner of Washington and Hovey streets, which accommodated two hundred and twenty-five people and was constructed at a cost of about four thousand dollars. A picture of this original building now hangs in our sacristy.

In describing the early history of Grace Church, the Rev. George W. Shinn writes that around 1870 "Newton took a rapid stride forward. Strangers began to settle here, attracted by the beauty and healthfulness of the place, and among them were many church folk who threw them-

Sergeant LaValle entered the military service at Fort Devens August 16, 1943, and served in the United States until discharged at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, on November 10, 1945. Re-enlisting at Boston on October 5, 1946, he remained on duty in the United States until alerted for movement to the Pacific Theater of Operations in November, 1946. Arriving in Japan at the Second Major Port, Yokohama, on December 28, 1946, Sergeant LaValle was assigned to the Fifth Air Force and subsequently reassigned to the 89th Bombardment Squadron at Itami Air Force Base on the main Japanese home island of Honshu.

Aquilino received $500 condit award as a result of his high academic rank of 29 As and eight Bs.

"Get-to-Gether" To Be Held Weekly

The Rebecca Pomroy House, 24 Hovey street, Newton announces that they will hold "Get-to-Gether" meetings Monday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 4:30 for persons over 60 years of age who have time on their hands and would like to meet there for an afternoon of cards, games, knitting or any other diversion which may appeal to them.

selves earnestly into work of the parish. The building became too small to hold the worshippers, and it was felt to be imperatively necessary to erect a new church.

At first it was proposed to build a new and larger church on the Hovey street site, but some of the vestry, especially Mr. S. Welles Holmes, believed that the future growth of Newton would be in a southeasterly direction and that increasing traffic on the Boston and Albany railroad tracks would make the Hovey street location noisy and unpleasant. Consequently a large tract of land was bought extending from Church street to Vernon street along the line that is now Eldredge street. Because most of this land was low and swampy, it had to be filled with "innumerable carloads of earth."

A plot on the southern end of this land was selected for the new church building and the rest was eventually sold. Mr. Alexander R. Esty was chosen to be the architect of the new stone church. It is interesting to know that he also designed Emmanuel Church in Boston. Although the vestry and congregation originally expected to pay about forty thousand dollars for the complete structure, it was found when the work was done that the total cost amounted to one hundred and five thousand dollars. Nevertheless the parishioners managed in a short time to raise the necessary money.

On the First Sunday in Advent, 1873, the new church building was opened for divine worship, so that it has now served this parish for exactly seventy-five years. Thanks be to God for having put into minds and hearts of those early Grace Church parishioners the determination to build so wisely and so well.

Following the anniversary service a luncheon was held for those who took part in the United Church Canvass. Julius W. Kohler was in charge of the luncheon which was attended by 55 workers. Other members of the committee were Messrs. Henry MacLure, Alfred Bollenbach, Horace Cole and Gordon Gupitlik.

Warren Jr. High School, as he returned from a trip to City Hall with six of his fellow classmates. John is one of the many members of a Social Studies class which is taking part in the current Red Cross survey of our city. Large Gathering Hears Talk By Mrs. Beatrice Hutchinson Monday evening, Mrs. Beatrice Hutchinson, a Massachusetts Junior High school teacher and representative of the Massachusetts Society for Social Hygiene, of the Cabot-Cliffin P.T.A., spoke before a crowded audience.

She stressed the importance and need for parents to educate their children in understanding human growth. To give parents an idea of how to approach the subject at home, the film Human Growth was shown. The comparison of the growth of boys and girls from infancy to maturity was shown in simple, diagrammatic form, with a basic description of the general cycle of reproduction and birth. On the level of junior-high school understanding, the film also showed actual classroom scenes of students discussing phases of human growth with their teacher. Although this film is shown in Oregon schools, at the present time in Massachusetts it is being shown to parents as one step in a program to stop juvenile delinquency at its source and to give our children a better chance for a healthful, happy adjustment to home-life.

Community Chorus to Present Third Christmas Carol Festival

A work by a well-known composer and music-educator will be a feature of the third annual Christmas Carol Festival, to be presented December 15 at the Newton High School Auditorium by the Community Chorus of the Newtons, Inc.

Among other music appropriate to the Christmas season, the Newton Chorus will offer "Now the Holy Child is Born," as arranged by Dr. Kenneth Kelley, dean of the College of Music at Boston University. This ancient German carol was arranged by Dr. Kelley in 1935. It is an outstanding example of his achievements in this field, achievements which have won him wide recognition. In addition to his notable work as an educator, Dr. Kelley has found time for exercising his gift for original composition and for arranging other music, especially in the choral field. His arrangement of "Now the Holy Child is Born" will mark the first time the Newton Chorus has performed one of his works. Under the direction of Ralph Schoonmaker, the Chorus will present many other examples of Christmas music, including traditional hymns and carols from many lands. At this concert, Mrs. Ralph Schoonmaker will accompany the chorus at the piano. Officials of the Chorus have announced that the Christmas concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. They also wish to make it clear that there is no charge for admission to this concert. A limited number of tickets are being issued.

Chief Purcell Gives Warning to All

With a "we're going to get tough" attitude, Chief of Police Philip Purcell this week warned motorists of the dangerous driving conditions brought about by a combination of winter weather and pre-Christmas activity. "Snow, ice, sleet, fog—they all present extra hazards when driving," Chief Purcell said, "and unless we take realistic precautions against them, there will be costly accidents and people getting hurt." In making his statement, Chief Purcell said that a report by the

Christmas Mail Far In Excess of 1947

Although handling a daily record mail load over the past six months, postal officials report that they are receiving a Christmas mail load far in excess of former years. They do advise, however, that parcels for the far west which have not yet been mailed have little or no chance of Christmas delivery unless they are sent by air parcel post, special delivery or special handling. Mail for Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington closed for Christmas delivery on December 3, while parcels for delivery in a large part of the mid-west and the South closed on Wednesday of this week.

More and more business establishments are sending packages by parcel post and conservative

Don't Gamble with your Family's Safety

A legal flaw in your arrangements for your family's welfare after your passing may result in heavy loss for those whom you want to protect.

Such a defect may exist without your knowing it: a result, for instance, of new laws enacted since your will was made.

Don't take that chance with your family's future. The smaller your estate, the less able will they be to endure necessary losses resulting from legal technicalities you never heard of.

Make sure your beneficiaries will be legally safe. Your lawyer's fee for that assurance will be a highly profitable investment in family protection. See him without delay.

Labor Accepts Responsibilities

The two greatest labor organizations in the country, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, have recently held their conventions and perhaps the outstanding note in the ranks of labor has been the clearest denunciation of Communism and the equally determined expression of support for the foreign policy of the United States.

While it is difficult to judge the tenor of the meetings from the published accounts of what transpired, it seems to be evident that labor, in insisting upon the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, has not definitely closed the door to considering any amendments that, in the words of President William Green, of the A. F. of L., may "be desirable." Both conventions give evidence of the fact that labor leaders are cognizant of their responsibility, both in regard to the international policies of the United States and in connection with the economy of the domestic scene.

Analyzing Record Dividends

The newspapers are telling us of record dividends that American business will pay in 1948, emphasizing that not since 1929-30 have such generous payments been made on capital stock as a reflection of high earnings.

It is noted that first quarter dividends in 1948 were 16 per cent higher than in the same period of 1947, second quarter payments were 9 per cent higher and third quarter payments were 14 per cent above those of last year. Present indications are that the fourth quarter will be sufficient to set a new high record for the nation.

In this connection, we point out that the volume of dollars paid out as dividends is not an accurate picture of the compensation that stockholders receive. We must not overlook the fact that the buying power of the dollar has been affected and that the buying power of dividends, like the buying power of individual incomes, depends upon the prices that one must pay for what one buys.

We say now, in connection with dividend distributions, it is not the dollar volume that counts. The total sum distributed by American corporations must be considered in relation to present economic conditions and the reduced buying power of the dollar.

It is wise, we think, to call attention to the fact that an erroneous impression is sometimes created by the publication of dividend totals in dollars. Not only must we take into consideration the buying power of the dollar but we must also know the ratio that dividends bear to capital accounts involved in the operations of the corporations that pay them. This is vital if we are to understand the financial position of American corporations which play such an important part in the economic structure of the country.

In calling attention to these facts, in connection with corporate earnings, we would also point out that the bookkeeping processes of many corporations often cloud the picture so far as profits are concerned. Many economic sins are committed in connection with inventories, depreciation and other devices of artful auditors.

Be Prepared

It is time to think about dusting off the old snow shovel or perhaps treating yourself to a new one if you feel extravagant. It is well to purchase some rock salt as it is necessary to use on the ice. Also several pails filled with sand are effective when used on slippery walks.

It is fun on a snowy day to be in your own home and just sit in a big comfortable chair and watch the beautiful white crystals carpet the landscape. You can make this relaxation so much more enjoyable if your fireplace burns merrily. Now is a propitious moment to fill that wood box.

Unmask The Lobbyists

Charging that special interests used tremendous financial resources to pay for "high-powered lobbying activities," the Executive Council of a prominent labor organization has called for a full-dress Congressional investigation into charges that more than $12,000,000 were spent to influence the Eightieth Congress.

Declaring that there is evidence that powerful lobbies are preparing to redouble their efforts in the Eighty-first Congress, the labor leader suggests that the people of the country are entitled to the full facts concerning the "lobbying objectives, the identity and interests of individual contributors."

We think it is highly important for active lobbyists to be clearly identified. While it is perfectly proper for individuals and corporations to present facts to legislators, this should be done openly and above-board, without deception.

Organizations that operate under a high-sounding title, which implies that they are disinterested and concerned only with the public good, should be unmasked.

Babson Discusses Washington

Everyone is asking what Mr. Truman and his Democratic Congress will do. This I will discuss in today's column, although my conclusions will probably satisfy no one.

Since the election William Green, the able President of the American Federation of Labor, was my guest here at Babson Park. There is no doubt but that he feels that Mr. Truman owes his victory wholly to the farmers and the wage-workers. Without doubt the Taft-Hartley Law will be modified in several ways. Certainly, employers should have the right to state their case to their wage-workers; and moreover should be obliged to take the same anti-Communist oath as do the labor leaders.

It must not be forgotten that a coalition, at any time, of the Republicans and Southern Democrats could hold up any legislation that the President might greatly desire. This could apply to unreasonable excess profits taxes, price controls, changes in income brackets, New Deal dreams and other legislation which would be apt to bring about a decline in general business. Hence, although there is nothing in the Truman victory which could help business, there is much which could harm business except for the influence of the Southern Democrats.

It is an old political slogan that "no one wants to shoot Santa Claus." Certainly, the Democratic Santa Claus has been very good to the farmers who recently have had the most wonderful years in their history. As Mr. Dewey did not make any substantial promises to the farmers, they felt it wise "to let well enough alone." As Mr. Truman is noted for loyalty to his friends, he will oppose any bills which the farmers oppose. Furthermore, the Republicans can expect no help from Southern Democrats in cutting the profits of the farmers.

Over a term of years the farmers' profits have not been abnormal. The farmers are entitled to some more good years to make up for the many very bad years that they had during the thirties and even before. No industry should be judged by the earnings of only a few years. An average of an entire cycle should be considered. Surely, on this basis the farmers are entitled to every

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAW Duties of Guardians of Spendthrifts and Others

By Arthur W. Blakemore, Attorney

(The right to print, or reprint, any or all of these articles, is prohibited without permission of the author)

A GUARDIAN MAY be appointed of a spendthrift who wastes his money in various ways, and the effect of this appointment is to deprive the spendthrift of any power to make contracts or incur indebtedness of any kind except for necessities, which means that he cannot make a promise to marry or hire an attorney, neither a wife nor an attorney being classed as necessities of life.

Now, since the statute of 1938, no action for breach of promise to marry can be brought by anyone in this state, even one who is not under guardianship.

It is the duty of the guardian of the spendthrift to support not only the spendthrift but also his family, and this means in a manner suited to the size of his estate and his station in life.

The guardian for an aged or infirm person is tactfully called a conservator and has the same duties as the guardian of an insane person except that he has not the custody of the person of the ward.

The primary duty of all guardians is to care for the ward and this means that he shall use the principal when necessary, as he must at all times protect the ward rather than the interests of expectant heirs. On the other hand, the ward is not entitled to all the income of a large estate when it is not necessary for his proper support.

Alice Jorgensen reported on the 12th District Jr. Conference held on November 9. There were 18 members present which was the second largest group from any one club.

On December 19 the members will visit the N. E. Peabody Home for Crippled Children and distribute gifts to all the children. Helen Campbell of the membership committee reported 11 new members have joined the club this year.

January was designated as Book Month. Members will bring books and magazines which will be mailed to the Junior Project at Stuttgart, Germany in care of Betty Atherton.

Miss Helen Sandstrom, director of the Pomeroy Home told us about a new afternoon program being held for people over sixty at the Home. Members were invited to send any one over who might be interested in cards, knitting or just a social afternoon.

Mrs. Ernest Hale, 12th District Director will be our guest at the January meeting.

An interesting talk on Floral Arrangements was given by Eastman's Flowers in Newtonville. A beautiful arrangement of flowers was drawn and the lucky winner was Miss Helen Sandstrom.

Refreshments were served by Ruth Daniels who had a very unusual decoration of huckleberry and apples as the centerpiece.

National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards showed that about 65 per cent of the winter accidents occur on snow and ice. The report further stated, he said, that the second major cause for the 24 to 33 per cent increase in accident death rates over the summer rates in snow-belt states during the winter is caused by reduced visibility.

"To combat these hazards, be prepared," the Chief urged. "Anti-skid chains are needed at times to counteract snow and ice. Use your tire chains when needed and avoid an accidental missing link in your family circle on Christmas. Also, be sure that your wipers, defrosters and headlights are in proper condition. These are all devices to make driving more safe in bad weather, but the real thing is the driver. It is up to him or her—to be extra careful and doubly alert," he added.

To make his warning stick, Chief Purcell said that every accident will be thoroughly investigated to get at the cause, and added that "a few people might end up being booked for carelessness and negligence. We don't want death to take anybody's holiday."

We Were Happy to Help

Editor, Newton Graphic:

As we near the completion of the 1949 Newton Community Chest Campaign, I want you to know how much we appreciate the help and cooperation which you gave us.

The coverings you gave us in the "Newton Graphic" kept the public informed of the needs of the Red Feather Agencies as well as the progress of the campaign. Our work was made much easier because the public interest was increased by being better informed.

It is a real satisfaction to have a newspaper in the community which fulfills the requirements so thoroughly and so courteously.

Thank you for a job well done. It has been a pleasure to have you on our team.

Sincerely yours,
Riley Hampton, Chairman

It's Your Business

Those who ignore the fact that huge government expenditures are responsible for the inflationary increase of the money supply, sing the familiar song that "business alone is responsible for high prices."

Actually, they know, because the figures prove it, that profits are not the cause of high prices. They know that corporate profits after taxes account for about 6 percent of the price of the $232 billion worth of goods and services sold to ultimate consumers in 1947. They know that if prices could be reduced 6 percent by eliminating corporate profits it would have disastrous economic consequences.

With an over-abundance of money and an under-supply of goods for civilians we can do only two fundamental things to lick inflation and stabilize prices:—

We can reduce the money supply and increase production for civilian consumption. In these crucial days we cannot skip foreign aid, and we've got to pay to keep our defense powder dry.

But we can insist on rigid economy in government, and elimination of waste, inefficiency, and duplication. We can postpone many public works expenditures and abandon all pork-barrel projects.

What we need most in this country of ours is fiscal statesmanship, without partisanship. We need a good business approach to the business of government.

Charlie Meeker, in his usual capable and genial way, introduced the speaker, Professor Everett W. Stephens, Director of Personnel, Babson's Institute of Business Administration.

Professor Stephens' subject was "Square Pegs in Round Holes." As the subject indicates, the speaker is interested in placing people in those jobs to which they are best adapted. He said that people who fail to understand themselves are obviously square pegs in round holes, in other words, misfits. Each individual should understand his own personality pattern and so judge where he is going to fit in the pattern of society. Babsons is endeavoring to help students to do this.

An individual should work in a sphere that is congenial to him and in which he can make the most of his abilities rather than expose his liabilities. Professor Stephens described some of the ability requirements as they apply to certain jobs. He recommended that businessmen analyze the job requirements in their concerns, develop tests for these jobs and then apply them. He summarized that round pegs in round holes make for happier employees and better business.

Public Relations Meeting
Chairman Edward Boulter's Public Relations Committee convened last Tuesday night at Scout Headquarters in Newtonville to discuss future plans and particularly to acquaint each District with a proposal whereby a Scout in each Pack and Troop be designated to forward items of news interest to the Council Office for publication in the local papers. Awards will be granted the Scouts so designated for the successful performance of their duties. Each will bear the title "Cub Reporter" or "Scout Reporter" and should derive a keen interest from compiling, editing and writing interesting news copy which they may see in print in their local newspapers.

A senior girl in Miss Burdon's home room, seeing the picture of the family, thought it would be a good idea to send them something for Christmas. The other pupils took up the idea, and soon three boxes were filled to overflowing. Two boxes were crammed with clothes, and one packed with food and toys in Christmas wrappings. By now they should be well on the way to France to bring a bit of cheer at Christmas time.

Mass. Winter Sports Facilities Best Ever And Ready for Snow

More and better winter sports facilities are ready in Massachusetts for the thousands of enthusiasts who are waiting for the first snows to invade the trails and slopes, according to Amico J. Barone, executive director of the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission.

There are now 67 ski areas in the Bay State, many of which offer additional attractions in the form of tobogganing, skating, snowshoeing, and sleigh rides. Of this number seven are newly listed in the Massachusetts Ski Guide now being prepared by the recreation division of the commission. These include facilities in Amesbury, Ashfield, Ashby, Barre, Beverly, and Waltham.

One major development, Jimmy Peak on the Hancock-Lanesboro road, this winter takes its place among the outstanding New England facilities. A new 2100-foot Alpine T-bar lift and three rope tows have been installed on the area. Located in a natural, sheltered bowl on the northern side of the mountain there are two big open slopes and three trails suitable for all degrees of skiing skill.

Winter sports development are well scattered throughout the Commonwealth in 57 communities, from New York line on the west to Amesbury in Essex County and other areas in the Greater Boston vicinity. The major portion are, of course, concentrated in the Berkshire Hills where the heaviest snowfall is generally recorded and the season holds on almost as late as in more northern sections.

Among the 89 rope tows reported by the various developments, five have been newly installed. There is one at the Springfield Ski Club area in Blandford, giving that development a total of four tows. Another is at Mount Tom State Reservation in Holyoke on the easterly side where several trails converge at Lake Bray. Three new tows are ready for operation in the Amesbury area.

Massachusetts also has four jumping hills, varying in distance and length for the training and sport of all degrees of expertness in this type of skiing.

Pasteurizing Progress

The town of Lancaster, Mass., recently put pasteurizing regulations into effect, bringing to a total of 100 the Massachusetts communities now requiring that all milk be pasteurized or certified.

Intensified Effort Necessary to Further Reduce TB Toll Here

An accelerated campaign is necessary if substantial further reductions are to be made in the toll taken by tuberculosis in Massachusetts, Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, member of the Program Development Committee of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League, and former State Health Commissioner, declared today.

Appealing for generous public support of the current sale of Christmas Seals, Dr. Chadwick pointed out that "ten years ago, in 1938, tuberculosis took 1675 lives in Massachusetts for a death rate of 38.9 per hundred thousand persons. In 1947 1584 lives were lost and the death rate was 34.5. The rate decreased slightly more than four points during the decade.

"Meanwhile, the tuberculosis death rate for the United States as a whole dropped from 48.6 in 1938 to 33.2 in 1947, a decrease of more than 15 points. The national rate is now 'below the state rate'.

"Massachusetts for many years has had an outstanding tuberculosis program sponsored by official and voluntary agencies. The evidence strongly suggests, however, that if we are to keep pace with the rest of the country in the future, intensified effort is necessary. The factors which have allowed tuberculosis to hold its position must be offset through increased effort in every phase of the control program—education, research, early discovery of cases, isolation, treatment and rehabilitation."

The special committee of which Dr. Chadwick is a member has been engaged for the past six months in a review of the services of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League. The study seeks to determine how the voluntary tuberculosis movement can most effectively advance the statewide campaign against tuberculosis in the future.

Shortages Curb Expenditure of Highway Funds

Shortages in the highway field have so impeded the road program of Massachusetts that it has been unable to commit to actual construction $21,163,000 of the Federal road funds still available to it not only under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1944 but even from extended pre-war and wartime Federal grants, Philip C. Thibodeau, general manager of the Automobile Legal Association (A.L.A.) said today. He cited the U. S. Public Roads Administration as the source of his figures.

"When Congress authorized appropriations under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1944, it expected these grants to be spent by last June 30," he declared. "However, as late as September 1 our State had still not committed to actual construction 59.06% of the $35,836,000 of Federal aid highway funds available in the post-war period from the 1944 Act and previous Federal road grants. Shortages have put us years behind in taking up our post-war and even our pre-war and wartime Federal grants."

Mr. Thibodeau asserted that "this inability to spend our Federal road grants does not reflect in any way upon the diligence of our State highway officials. The same shortages and inflationary conditions that have hindered them have caused the Federal-aid program to fall far behind schedule in every state—so far behind that Congress has twice had to extend the period for the states to take up their 1944 Act grants."

"While this situation is unfortunate, it is certainly not disastrous," he continued. "These Federal-aid grants will remain available, and they will be supplemented by the additional grants voted to us by Congress in the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1948."

"Furthermore, we have the accumulation of unspent funds from our own State highway user taxes, and more money is pouring in from these taxes every day. We may not have much of a highway program now, but as soon as conditions permit unimpeded construction, we shall have the funds for the greatest road program in our history."

Mentally Ill Vet Community Problem Now

The public now is facing the problem of the mentally ill veteran intelligently and objectively, realizing that a psychiatric illness is not a stigma, but, like a physical disability, must be treated and may be cured, according to Dr. H. I. Harris of Boston, psychiatrist who heads the extensive Veterans Administration neuropsychiatric program in New England.

"The realization that the mentally and emotionally ill are the responsibility of the community," Dr. Harris said, "and that an understanding attitude on the part of the community can do much to effect a cure, gained considerable momentum after World War II when thousands of veterans returned home emotionally disturbed."

"The public was faced with the fact that the majority of veterans hospitalized in VA hospitals were so-called NP—or neuropsychiatric—patients. The problem of treating, curing and rehabilitating these mentally ill veterans in order that they could resume their rightful place in the community had to be faced directly."

Dr. Harris pointed out that of the 5,870 patients in New England VA hospitals on September 30, 3,955 are classed as "NP" patients.

"On the basis of our experiences after World War I," Dr. Harris continued, "we have every reason to anticipate that the number of NP veteran patients will increase. Now, however, with the backing of an understanding public, plus the increased skill and knowledge of competent psychiatrists, we are able to effect more and more cures."

In addition to its three NP hospitals, the VA in New England has outpatient mental hygiene clinics in Boston, Providence, Hartford, and Manchester, New Hampshire.

These mental hygiene clinics, Dr. Harris explained, comprise the "preventive psychiatry" phase of the VA's neuropsychiatric program.

"Through our mental hygiene clinics," Dr. Harris said, "we treat the mentally ill veteran before his emotional disturbance requires that he be hospitalized. The old adage—'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure'—applies particularly to the emotionally disturbed veteran, for by treating him in the early stages of his illness we usually can arrest its progress, arriving at an eventual cure.

Richard E. Burrows was elected secretary of the New England Association of Beta Theta Pi at its annual banquet in the Boston City Club, last week.

Each VA mental hygiene clinic team is made up of a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a social service worker. The clinics offer residency training to private psychiatrists working for certification by American Specialty Boards.

Army To Commission 23,000 2nd Lieutenants From Civilian Life

Applicants must qualify on five counts: (1) One year's active service in any of the Armed Forces of the United States between December 7, 1941 and June 30, 1947. (2) Separation from the service under honorable conditions. (3) Must have completed two years toward a degree at an accredited college. (4) Not due to attend a college or university at the time of entry on active duty. (5) 19 to 31 years old, inclusive.

The flow of volunteers and selective service inductees into the expanding Army has created a wide need for junior officers in all branches of the service. This new officer procurement program gets under way on or about December 1, 1948, with the first student officers arriving at schools the last week of November. Applicants can currently choose the branch of service they prefer from among cavalry, infantry, Field Artillery, Anti-Aircraft Artillery and Guided Missiles. Other schools are now in the planning stage and before long commissions in every branch will probably be available.

Successful applicants will be commissioned in the Officers Reserve Corps prior to being ordered to active duty at the appropriate Army school for 12 weeks of training. After graduation they will remain on active duty to complete at least two years.

Applications are now being received at all Recruiting Stations.

The colorful windows at The Regent Shop just sing Merry Christmas when you go by. I gazed long and hard at the bright red dresses, perfect for Christmas Eve and holiday fun. There was a pleasant array of soft, wooly sweaters and gay turtle necks sweaters. And, oh, those blouses! Shiny, dancing bugle beads are splashed across the front and sparkle merrily. If you buy a box of stockings at $1.65 or more a pair, there will be a 50c reduction. In the next window was "such stuff as dreams are made of." Sheer, filmy nighties and smooth slips were delicately feminine. A shy pink quilted robe was breath-taking for $16.95. Luxurious bed jackets were lovely, and a set consisting of black satin pajamas and a chinese shortie coat led the parade for $25.95. On a little further and clothes for the children can be found; adorable and sweet. Dainty dresses and perk suits will keep the little folks happy as a lark for their holiday parties. And last, and perhaps most important, a window of toys. Cuddly stuffed animals, games galore have the youngsters enthralled. Honestly, The Regent Shop windows are full of gifts for everyone. Just imagine what you'll find inside!

C. Schmidt & Sons Inc. Has Set New Brewing Record
C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc., of Philadelphia, one of the largest breweries in the East, today announced the sale and delivery of its millionth barrel of beer and ale since January first of this year. The significance of this announcement lies in the fact that this is the first time in Philadelphia brewing history that a single brewer has reached such a volume within a single year.

The Schmidt brews, now covering several blocks adjoining Girard near Second street, Philadelphia, started in a small way in 1860. The founder was Christian Schmidt, an old-world brewer, who brought his formula with him. Some 20 odd years later, in the eighties, Schmidt's acquired the property and formula of the Robert Smith brewery, which dates from 1774 and whose Philadelphia-brewed Tiger Head Ale was a favorite Colonial beverage.

The Social Welfare

By JOHN J. GRIFFIN

Now that we have completed our explanation of the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance Program, we proceed to analyze the provisions of the Massachusetts Old Age Assistance Law.

At the outset, it may be well to repeat here the basic distinctions pointed out in our first article. The Old Age and Survivors Insurance is a federal insurance. Old Age Assistance is fundamentally a state program. Again, the first is insurance. The second is public assistance under the supervision of the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. The first or insurance is paid directly by the U.S. Treasury Office in New York. The second is paid by the local Somerville City Treasurer. Participants in the federal insurance benefits receive their monthly payments by right, as a result of the contributions taken from their wages (or their husband's, father's or children's wages), while recipients of Old Age Assistance obtain semi-monthly cash grants because of need of funds derived from general national, state and local taxation. Old Age Assistance has nothing to do with contributions made either by employers or employees in Social Security payroll taxes.

Old Age Assistance
The Massachusetts Old Age Assistance program went into effect in 1931, six years before the Federal Social Security Act became operative. When it first went into effect the Massachusetts program was financed jointly by the State and the Cities and Towns. The Social Security Act made federal participation possible. Almost every session of the Legislature has liberalized the program since it first became effective. The program presently operates under the provisions of Chapter 118A of the General Laws of the Commonwealth.

In Massachusetts there is no Old Age Pension. The law in question provides simply public assistance. The basic qualifications are four: 1. American citizenship; 2. Being sixty-five years of age or over; 3. Having been a resident of Massachusetts three years out of the past nine and the entire year immediately prior to the date of application; and above all; 4. Being in need of public support. Any person having sufficient private resources or sufficient income from any source whatsoever is not eligible for Old Age Assistance.

The first sentence in Section of Chapter 118A of the General Laws reads as follows: "Adequate assistance to deserving citizens in need of relief and support sixty-five years of age or over who shall have resided in the Commonwealth not less than three years during the nine years immediately preceding the date of application for such assistance and who shall have resided in the Commonwealth continuously for one year immediately preceding that of application shall be granted under the supervision of the Department of Public Welfare."

Must Be Citizen
It is clear that the first qualification refers to citizenship. In Massachusetts in order to be eligible for Old Age Assistance one must be an American citizen. This contrasts with Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance, to obtain which one need not be a citizen. Moreover, several States of the Union do not require citizenship as a basis for receiving Old Age Assistance. Although all Old Age Assistance plans must conform to the minimal requirements of the Social Security Act, State Laws vary in details regarding eligibility qualifications such as citizenship, residence, property allowances and similar factors.

While the matter of citizenship would seem to be very simple, the contrary is the truth. Citizenship is either natural or acquired. Any person born in the United States is a citizen by nativity. The second way to citizenship is by naturalization either of the person, the person's husband or the person's parent, if the person is a minor. The Federal statutes pertaining to the loss and the acquisition of American citizenship by married women are quite complicated and will be treated in a special installment.

Although most people realize the significance of citizenship, the popularity of certain mistaken notions is amazing. Some people for example, confuse residence with citizenship. Not infrequently an applicant for Old Age Assistance asked about possessing citizenship will answer in a tone of indignation: "Certainly, I've lived in the country for forty years." The fact is, of course, that a person could live in this country for a hundred years, more or less, and not be a citizen. Mere residence never constitutes American citizenship. Again, some people take out their so-called "first papers" or "declaration of intention to become a citizen" and never pursue the matter to completion. "First papers" are only what they very precisely state, that is, "a declaration of intention." Persons having only such "first papers" are very definitely not citizens.

An applicant for Old Age Assistance must prove citizenship, either by a personal birth or baptismal record, by naturalization papers, or by a marriage certificate and the birth or naturalization record of a husband, or by similarly substantial documentation.

In order to vote a person is supposed to be an American citizen but a mere voting record in itself does not constitute sufficient proof of citizenship. The reason for this is that registrars of voters do not require documentary proof from persons who allege birth in this country.

Certain foreign nationals change their names or the spelling of their names when they become naturalized. This procedure sometimes leads to difficulties when it comes time to compare naturalization and birth or marriage records.

Again, naturalized citizens occasionally lose their citizenship papers. If the elementary data concerning time and place of naturalization can be obtained, it is usually possible to obtain duplicate papers.

Persons worried about citizenship or naturalization problems can receive counsel and help of great value from: the Division of Immigration and Americanization of the Massachusetts Department of Education, 2 Tremont place, Boston.

DO YOU KNOW THAT... The manufacturing centers in Massachusetts showing the highest average weekly earnings per wage earner in mid-October were: Norwood $63.39, Pittsfield $63.37, Lynn $58.73, Worcester $58.40, Chicopee $56.87, Everett $56.64, Gardner $56.59, Springfield $56.09, Framingham $54.85, and Peabody $54.75, as reported by Dept. of Labor and Industries... More than 1700 dwelling units of the State Housing Board's veterans' program are now under construction in six Massachusetts cities. They involve $25,000,000 of state credit, of which $15,000,000 is subsidy, and represent 12% of the entire program...

The Back Yard Gardener

Jeanie came home the other day and announced that she had made a down payment on my Christmas present, which made me realize that it's time to be thinking about Christmas greens.

With Christmas greens, as with other things, those you make yourself somehow or other have much more significance. If you feel that way and decide to make your own Christmas decorations, I hope the first thing you do will be to get permission of the land owner. That will make your Christmas much more enjoyable.

Once you have this permission, go to the spots where he suggests you can find material—for instance, in an area where he has been cutting off the wood lot. If he has no particular spot for you, be sure to get far enough away from the road. For instance, don't cut laurel bushes near the road. Leave those bushes to bloom next spring and make your springtime auto trip enjoyable. Remember that laurel is cut twice a year anyway, so cut it sparingly if at all.

Use pruning shears, a saw, or a sharp knife on all greens rather than breaking them viciously to leave unsightly ends.

Pasture juniper makes an excellent green for Christmas decorations and it's something which the farmer is glad to get rid of. The underside of the juniper has a beautiful silver sheen. Mix that with the dark green of fir and you have a beautiful combination.

Ground hemlock or Canadian yew make excellent material and is a weed in the forest. The red berries look attractive, but they soon drop off indoors, so don't plan on those.

Running jenny or princess pine is not too good, since it dries up rapidly indoors. Hemlock is good if the wreath is to be used out of doors. Cut off one or two branches close to the trunk and you'll have all you need.

Pitch pine offers good material and is a weed tree. Red pine is also excellent though it's really better for churches and halls than for the home. It makes excellent trim around the house, on the window sills, and so on. One spray of red pine with a ribbon and tinsel tied to it makes a wreath itself.

As a matter of fact, you don't need to go into the country to get enough evergreens for decorations or a wreath. You can usually get plenty of these overgrown evergreens in front of the house, but be careful, of course, to prune them carefully. They usually need it and a little careful pruning will give you enough material for a centerpiece or a wreath for the front door.

Maybe your neighbor would like to have his evergreens pruned down so that light can get in through the windows.

Well, that's that. Gather your greens this coming week and in my next note I'll try to give you

Small Towns Must Help For A Healthy State

Massachusetts will be healthy only when the citizens of the smallest towns, as well as those of the largest cities, are healthy—and that situation cannot exist under the present public health organization in the state, explains Dr. Robert E. Archibald, deputy commissioner and local health director of the Mass. Dept. of Public Health, in an article appearing today in the December 2 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"Sound public health programs can be best administered through sound local health departments, covering 'the entire population,'" Dr. Archibald emphasizes, "but on the basis of existing facilities and laws such health units, composed of unions of towns, are not feasible in this state."

"Of the 351 communities in Massachusetts, 220 have populations of less than 5000. Dr. Archibald points out that it is not surprising then that only 11 towns and cities and one county can afford full-time medical health officers, which assure the citizens at least the basic health services. Under the present system by which each of the 351 communities provides its health services individually, only 3% have full-time medical health officers and 13% have full-time lay health officers. The remaining 84% of the communities in the state have either part-time lay health officers or part-time medical officers or no health officers."

Dr. Archibald asserts that local health units composed of towns with populations totaling about 50,000 would answer the present problem of providing adequate health facilities to all citizens. Such units headed by a full-time medical health director chosen by the union board of health composed of representatives of the member towns could effectively and economically assure "the control of communicable diseases; environmental sanitation; hygiene of maternity, infancy and childhood, including supervision of the school child; public health laboratory; health information; and chronic disease control."

"A unit serving 50,000 persons should have a staff consisting of one full-time public health physician, one full-time sanitary engineer, one sanitary inspector, ten public health nurses, one of whom would be of supervisory grade, and three clerical workers," the deputy commissioner says, pointing out particularly the tremendous lack of trained public health workers over the state except in cities.

Some helpful suggestions on how to make Christmas decorations. Oh, yes, one thing more. On your way home stop at the farm house and thank Farmer Fowler for the greens you gathered from his land. You would want him to thank you, so do the same to him. It will make your Christmas more enjoyable.

Snow Time is Here - Check Safety Rules

"The first flurry of snow has hit Metropolitan Boston this year and is a pertinent reminder that winter months are upon us. To motorists it has special meaning as a reminder that unpleasant and dangerous months of driving are just around the corner."

Thus spoke Mr. Edgar F. Copell, President-Director of the Massachusetts Safety Council as he glanced out his office window and watched the first snow flakes fall on slow-moving vehicles, as their drivers peered through windshields flaked with wet snow.

"Each year we warn motorists of the hazards of winter driving—the need for extra caution and slower speeds on slippery streets. Each year the winter months show the results of these hazards—accidents and deaths due to skidding cars, vision obstructions, and failure of drivers to reduce speed to meet winter driving conditions."

"Excessive speed is still the big factor in traffic accidents. Normal speeds are very dangerous when streets are wet and slippery. It takes from 3 to 12 times more distance to stop your car on snow or ice."

"Winter months bring longer night hours of driving. Snow and ice on windshields result in reduced visibility and greatly increase dangers of an accident. In one out of five fatal accidents, the driver's vision was obscured."

Mr. Copell offers the following suggestions to motorists for safe winter driving:

1. Get the "feel" of the road before starting out.

- Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions.
- Slow down on wet, snowy and icy roads.
- Use tire chains on ice and snow.
- Keep the windshield and windows clear of snow, ice and frost. (You have to see danger to avoid it.)
- When stopping, don't jam on brakes, pump them up and down.
- Follow other vehicles at a safe distance.
- Always keep this thought in mind—"Can I stop in time?"

IF YOU CAN'T REMODEL...

PAINT!

DID you know that you can make a room look longer or shorter, wider or narrower by placing the right colors in the right places? ... That you can raise or lower the apparent height of a ceiling by proper application of color?

If remodeling costs too much—try painting. You'll be surprised what a little paint and color in the hands of an expert can do for your home.

ALL ARE CORDIALLY WELCOME

ODD BUT TRUE . . . In Juarez, Mexico, the feminine police corps, organized to discourage necking in movie theatres, had to disband when box office attendance fell off terrifically (that we'd say, no necking—no audience) . . . In Dallas, Texas, a woman complained to police that a 3-year-old girl kept biting her great dane (puppy love, we'd say) . . . Ever knock out 22 teeth at one fell swoop? I'll bet you have—if you've ever killed a mosquito.

With Christmas only two weeks away, you ski fans had better start hinting to "Santa Claus". And remember, you can get the very best in equipment, repairs, and advice right here in Newton. Reports are beginning to come in from up north. First one in was Temple Mountain Ski Development, Temple, N. H. Sounds like they have everything you've been looking for, and only 63 miles from Boston. You can get information and latest snow reports from Charles C. Beebe Jr., Temple Mt. Ski Town, Inc., Hollis, N. H. Telephone Hollis 48-3.

The Associated Ski Slubs of Boston will present John Jay's film, "Ski Over Europe", Friday, December 17, at 8:15 p.m., at the Cambridge High and Latin School Auditorium. Proceeds will benefit the National Ski Fund. The focus of the film is the 1948 Winter Olympic. John Jay will be there in person, and judging from the past, the evening should be highly humorous too.

Saw something new at "Al" Rogan's again. This time a ski with both tips turned up. "Al" wouldn't claim them; said he was only putting edges on for someone else. Must be terrific for climbing hills. There's one skier who'll have an excuse for not knowing whether he's coming or going.

Now's your chance to do what you've always wanted to do. Pan American is running all-expense ski tours to the Alps. Ah, skiing at St. Moritz, Zermatt, Davos, Andermatt — wonderful! Only drawback is a $685 minimum tariff, and that's not powdered snow either.

Bob Johnson's Ski School has taken on the "new look". Everything neat and ship-shape — You take your bumps in beautiful surroundings now. It's worth a look. SKI JUMPS:

Watch your television program for a new ski show, sponsored by Boston and Maine . . . New Igloo Coat is fingertip length, huge pockets, and buckle collar and cuffs . . . Bright gift item is the Harmon pocket alarm watch. Wonderful for skiers, and under $15. tax inc . . . Recent investigation shows fear (whisper the word) an important factor in beginners. Postwar 'Dream' Car Unsafe, Says Automobile Club Postwar "dream" cars with their high repair costs and unsafe driving features are becoming a nightmare to the American automobile owner, according to Robert S. Kretschmar, secretary of the Boston Automobile Club.

"Longer and wider fenders, built into the car in one piece, make every parking operation a bad dream," Kretschmar says, "because a slight dent now means a major body repair job. And, of course, wider and wider cars are making our already crowded city streets narrower and narrower. As for changing a tire, a man has to be a combination of Houdini and Blackstone the Magician to get behind the new enclosed fenders and apron guards over the wheels."

"Many drivers, especially women, find the hoods so long and the seats so low that they can't see enough of the road in front of them for safe driving," the Club secretary continues. "Such restricted vision is actually dangerous in the city where children may run in front of the cars." Changeovers in body styling and design, Kretschmar adds, have slowed up delivery of new cars to impatient motorists but have no effect on the economy of operation — number one wish of the car owners. "Car buyers are justified in wondering why the time, money and engineering talent devoted to restyling wouldn't have made for more pleasant driving if they had been concentrated on producing a car that provides safety with maintenance economy features and runs more miles to the gallon."

Central Church Choir-Orchestra To Present Saint-Saen's Oratorio

An outstanding musical event of the Christmas season will be the presentation of Saint-Saen's Christmas Oratorio by the Chancel Choir of Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, with assisting soloist and orchestra Sunday evening, at 8 p.m. at the Church. This is perhaps the most ambitious program of music undertaken in recent years by this Church, of which the Rev. Randolph Seaman Merrill is minister.

The Chancel Choir of 50 trained voices is under the direction of Mr. James H. Remley, director of music in the Newton schools, while the orchestra of 16 pieces composed entirely of strings is conducted by Mr. Donald S. March, director of instrumental music in the Newton schools.

The Christmas Oratorio is one of the best-known oratorios by Camille Saint-Saen, whose works, however, cover a wide range of compositions from chamber music and songs to symphonies and operas, both in the classical and romantic moods.

Soloists who will sing the arias in the Christmas Oratorio include Mrs. Kenneth A. Bernard, soprano; Mrs. Elmer W. Keever, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. George N. Abott, contralto; Mr. Norman N. Dow, tenor and Mr. Franklin G. Field, baritone. Miss Lillian W. West, regular organist of Central Church, will be at the organ. The orchestral program preceding the Oratorio covers selections from several composers, including Handel's Concerto Grosso No. 15; Bach's Concerto in D Minor for two violins, which will be played by Mr. Channing Kempf and Mr. Alan W. Rowlings; Bach's Air from D Major Suite, and the Allegro from Mozart's Eine Kleine Nacht Musik.

The Music Committee of Central Church in charge of this presentation includes: Mr. George B. Rowlings, chairman; Mrs. Chester S. Merrill, Mrs. George B. Rowlings, Mrs. Kenneth A. Bernard, Miss Lillian W. West, Mr. James H. Remley, Mr. Donald S. March and Mr. Dudley Hovey.

Twenty State Health Laws Are Proposed

Twenty proposed health laws resulting from a year's study by the Special Commission on Public Health were filed last Wednesday morning with the House of Representatives by Senator Richard H. Lee of Newton, commission chairman.

"Passage of these bills affecting maternal and child health, preventable diseases, local health departments, general sanitation, and various other health matters would put Massachusetts even farther ahead in the front ranks of the nation as far as public health is concerned," Senator Lee remarked after filing the huge report. Both the senator and Rep. George W. Dean of Oakham, vice-chairman, have been instrumental in obtaining approval of health improvement legislation in the state.

Set up by the legislature in 1947, the Special Commission on Public Health is the third such group to study health matters in the Commonwealth in the last 100 years. Lemuel Shattuck, who was recently honored as America's outstanding public health pioneer at the American Public Health Association convention in Boston, made the first survey of the state and published his now famous report in 1850, urging the establishment of the first state health department. Not until 1936 was the second study of health conditions made by a recess commission of the legislature. Rapid changes in health practices and social conditions in recent years prompted the legislature in 1947 to request another complete study by the Special Commission, composed of both legislators and public health experts.

Beware Of The Heavy Traffic The Holiday Season

"Death and Taxes—and Traffic Congestion on Greater Boston streets—are always with us."

Snarled lines of traffic in thickly settled and business districts are day-to-day occurrences, and are now further aggravated by increased traffic loads during the Xmas-shopping season.

Mr. Edgar F. Copell, President, Director of the Massachusetts Safety Council, in discussing the problem of keeping traffic moving on our highly congested streets made the following comments:

"Everyone admits we must do something to improve the flow of traffic, particularly during peak hours. Recognizing that our present highways are inadequate, nevertheless motorists can do much to prevent the confusion and snarling of traffic.

"Traffic snarls frequently occur in signalized areas due to the poor judgement of many motorists and an apparent lack of knowledge that they are violating a traffic regulation. I refer to those drivers who insist upon entering intersections although traffic in the block ahead is backed up. As a result their vehicle blocks the area within the intersection and prevents movement of traffic on the cross street.

"This violation is particularly common at signalized intersections where drivers will enter the intersection on the green light even though there is no room beyond it. When the light changes to green for cross traffic it cannot proceed. This condition grows progressively worse with each signal cycle and traffic soon becomes stalled for long distances in all directions.

"This unnecessary obstructing of traffic could be avoided if motorists would use common sense—and Obey the Law! A traffic regulation of most cities and towns reads as follows: 'No driver shall enter an intersection or a marked crosswalk unless there is sufficient space on the other side of the intersection or crosswalk and on the right side of the roadway to accommodate the vehicle he is operating without obstructing the passage of other vehicles or pedestrians, NOTWITHSTANDING ANY TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL INDICATION TO PROCEED.'"

Exhibition of New England Scenes at Clairhorne Galleries

New England has long been a Mecca for artists, and many have tried, some most successfully, to capture the charm of this particular part of the country, but few have succeeded in transferring the spirit of New England to paint and canvas quite as successfully as Ruth Weston, whose paintings comprise the present exhibition at the Clairhorne Galleries, 243 Washington street, Newton.

Most artists content themselves with one particular type of technique, and if they try a second type they are apt to lose some of the distinction of their style—not so with Mrs. Weston. She paints with two widely divergent techniques—each one most successfully. With her brush she has achieved a clean cut line—surely drawn, representational, yet, withal, subjective. With her palette knife, she accomplishes the same result with an entirely different technique. Her palette knife pictures glow with the tonality of stained glass, rich, subdued, yet brilliantly luminous.

At the end of the gallery hangs a painting which gives one the unique impression of standing on a mountain, and looking down into a New England village—here is the prim, white-steeped church, the pond in the meadow, the cluster of houses, all seen through the crystal clear air of a February day. It is an ideal over-mantle picture—its depth and distance lift one from their room to the side of a mountain.

Mrs. Weston is equally successful with her marines—they are not static—the water flows and foams in breakers, and she has been able to catch the motion of waves as well as their color.

For a real treat—a breath of New England in any one of the four seasons, we suggest you see this exhibition, which will continue throughout the month of December. There is no charge for admission.

Working To Make Christmas Happier For Less Fortunate

For the third year the Newton Community Council and the Federation of Women's Clubs are working together to make Christmas more cheerful for some of Newton's less fortunate families.

For the fourteenth consecutive year the Christmas Clearance Committee of the Newton Community Council is acting as a clearing house for the names of families and individuals who will appreciate an additional gift at Christmas.

Any groups planning to take care of families or individuals are urged to list the names with the Council central filing system in order to avoid duplication and fraudulent appeals and so that all who are in need will be remembered. If you know of others whom you are not able to help, let us know. All names are kept absolutely confidential and all records destroyed after December 25th so the self-respect of the family is sustained.

Donations for these Christmas gifts are being received by the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs to help make these gifts possible. Cash gifts should be sent to the Christmas Service Committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs made payable to Grace A. Wentworth, Treas. and mailed to Mrs. Clarence Wentworth, 20 Foster street, Newtonville.

Predicts A Buyers Market In 1949

H. Clyde Baldwin, president of the Babson Statistical organization, addressing the Newton Kiwanis Club, Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A., expressed the opinion that there will be a rapid change from a sellers' to a buyers' market in many business fields during 1949, due to competition and lower profits. Although the aviation industry is seeking help, 75,000 additional men, at the Pacific Coast plants, unemployment will occur in other branches of industry and the proposed wage increase in the mines and the automobile industry, leading to a higher cost of living, may result in inflation, he declared.

It was also Mr. Baldwin's opinion that China, the source of imports necessary to American industry, is likely lost to Russia, despite huge loans from the United States. The future of U. S. business was difficult to forecast, he said, because the Nation's business leaders are awaiting President Truman's January 20th message. However, even though (Continued on Page 4)

200 Members Hear Haydn Harp Duo

The real meaning and spirit of Christmas was brought to some 200 members of the Auburndale Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon when the Haydn Harp Duo—Glady's and Kenneth Cusane—presented a musical program with their large golden harps and small Irish harps. Mr. Cusane supplemented their selections with a history of the origin of the Christmas carols. These, he said, were first played hundreds of years ago on the small Irish harps by minstrels who traveled Europe. One Christmas eve, Saint Francis, longing to bring back the true meaning of Christmas to a world which had come to think of it merely as a time of feast and celebration, created the first Nativity scene in a Franciscan monastery. Various people took the part of shepherds, angels (Continued on Page 4)

Seal Sale to Date Amounts to $7,100

A $1,600 increase in returns from the Newton Christmas Seal sale was reported to volunteers from the Newton women's clubs at a tea held last Thursday at the office of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association. Stockings of different lengths hanging from the mantle represented the different yearly returns from the sale of seals in Newton. The chart showed that in 1947 on December 12, the Tuberculosis Association had received $5,500.00, whereas on December 9, this year, the total was already $7,100.00.

Also present at the tea were Mrs. Elizabeth K. Miller, Mr. Arthur J. Strawson, Mrs. Aileen S. Pope, Mrs. John N. Boole, Mrs. E. B. Gidger, Mrs. Albert L. Sliker, Mrs. Arthur J. Lucier, Miss Martha MacLean, Mr. Edward Sullivan, Mrs. George Barrett, Miss Ruth N. Brooks, Mrs. (Continued on Page 4)

Commission Considers Primary Is An Expensive Failure

The Recess Commission on the Presidential Primary, of which Representative George E. Rawson of Newton is Vice-Chairman has filed its report with the clerk of the House of Representatives. The commission is of the opinion that the Presidential Primary in April as now conducted is an expensive failure, since such a small percentage of the voters enrolled in both major parties vote in it.

Presidential Preference exercised by writing in the name of the voter's choice for President, as in 1928 and 1936 by legislative acts of those years, is not the answer, because that preference was not binding on the delegates chosen. They were still free to vote as they might wish at the convention.

The commission therefore submitted a draft of legislation seeking to obtain a preference vote which will bind the delegates chosen to vote for the candidate preferred by the voters.

Whoever wishes to run for delegate to the national party convention shall file with the Secretary of State his voting residence and preference for President in a sworn statement, offering to support that candidate at the convention. Delegates must be accepted by the candidate or his authorized representative in writing filed with the State Secretary.

At the primary a vote for the presidential candidate is cast for the delegates pledged to him. At the convention of the party the delegates chosen in the primary are bound to vote for the candidate to whom they are pledged until they are released by the candidate or his authorized representative in writing filed with the secretary of the convention.

Since Massachusetts has 35 delegates to the national party convention, that is a sufficiently large block of votes to tempt any presidential candidate to campaign here for them. That should make Massachusetts a battle ground for all the candidates before the April primary. The voters of the state will therefore have a wide selection, and at the same time know that their preference will be expressed at the

EMMA F. JOHNSON

March 15, 1859 - December 11, 1948

Of the many who have read James Hilton's "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" or have seen it on the screen, none can forget its theme—the loyalty and devotion of retired teacher to school, and the affectionate regard of old boys for former master. Of this same kind was the feeling of Emma F. Johnson for Newton High School, and of its old graduates for her.

Born in Exeter, New Hampshire, almost ninety years ago, and receiving her early schooling in Portsmouth, Emma Johnson came first to Newton in January 1887, where she taught both English and Latin, later devoting full time to the teaching of English literature. In 1914, following a death in her family, she gave up her teaching and retired to New Hampshire to fulfill what she considered a family obligation. Eleven years later (in 1925), when this obligation had been discharged, she returned to Newton, where she remained for the rest of her days.

Since retirement from teaching, her active group interests were those which enabled her to extend a helping hand—the Red Cross, to which she gave generously of her services during the war, and the West Newton Branch of the Unitarian Church Women's Alliance.

To her old pupils, however, "Aunt Emma" will always appear as the presiding genius behind the desk in Room 11, patiently inspiring in willing but uncertain minds her own confident belief that

"Of all those arts in which the wise excel, Nature's chief masterpiece is writing well."

Or they may see her in the corridor, her ample form moving swiftly with head thrown back and arms a-swing,

"... sailing
Like a stately ship
Of Tarsus ...
Sails filled, and streamers waving,
Courtied by all the winds that hold them play."

These brief glimpses bring again to mind her unbounded energy and enthusiasm, her vigorous nods in affirmation of some statement with which she fully agreed, her kindly concern lest the best go unappreciated.

The remarkable part of Miss Johnson's association with the Newton High School is not the fact of her having taught for twenty-seven years in the old yellow-brick building on Walnut Street; for others have taught longer. It is the influence of her teaching during those years, the enduring associations that resulted, and the wealth of friendships into which they ripened. For the boys and girls who first profited by her instruction in the nineties were happy to send their children to her in the decade before the first World War, and, as the years lengthened into the second World War, to write her of their grandchildren.

In each of her former pupils "Aunt Emma" maintained a personal interest. The great events in their lives were invariably marked by a friendly note from her pen—perhaps of congratulations when a former pupil received an honorary degree, or of encouragement when his son was awarded a scholarship. Until her final illness she was both punctilious and generous in the writing of such messages, and they were ever gracious, friendly, and outgiving of her own spirit.

The memory of her teaching and what it meant could hardly be better expressed than by some verses which were included among letters to her on her last birthday, when she entered her ninetieth year:

"Not every classroom offered joy!
But one there was where every boy
And girl went gladly, savored fun,
And left, unconscious they had done
A stint of work. For learning, there,
Was gracious cheer. No grumbling care
Numbly oppressed the student brain,
But ideas fecund as spring rain
Seemed to make more ideas to shoot
And love of learning to take root."

"Aunt Emma's" light lives yet.

CAUTION!

We always think of the Christmas season as one filled with joy and happiness. Unfortunately Christmas tree fires claim many lives each year. This is unnecessary and avoidable.

First of all, a number one must: keep anything inflammable away from the tree! Keep the trunk of the tree in a container full of water in order that the boughs will remain moist, thus reducing the hazard.

We admit that when your house is dark and you have gone visiting for the evening, that the tree lights twinkling from the living room window appear attractive to the passersby. However, it may spell disaster! Turn your lights off when you are not going to be in the house where you can keep an eye on them. Be sure that the string of lights you use from year to year are in top notch condition, including the extension cords and the plugs. The small amount of time and money you save by not replacing old light sets and faulty connections may cause a tragedy.

Make your Christmas Holiday a safe one!

Notes and Comments

Charity is economical when, if you fail to give, the government gets about three-fourths of it anyway.

A friend is one upon whom you can count, regardless of your misfortunes. How many have you?

Here it is: The people of the United States fear Communism and the people of Russia fear Capitalism.

Advertising is the easiest and cheapest way to sell anything. Try it in our columns and find this out for yourself.

The motor vehicle death rate indicates that a man does not have to join the army to run the risk of being killed.

Everywhere you go, there is some smart fellow who can tell you that the government is doing everything wrong.

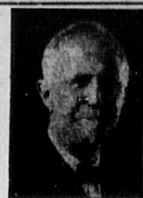

Never get excited about the human race. It's been here for a long time and it won't become excited about you.

No produce, however excellent, sells itself. Some kind of sales campaign is necessary and advertising is the modern method.

If a newspaper came out with the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, the editor would need a double suit of armor.

The coming holiday season should not be marred by accidents but it is up to you as an individual to be particularly careful.

Just because Thanksgiving Day has passed, there is no reason why we can't continue to be thankful for our great and manifold blessings.

Babson Discusses Automobile Securities

Babson Authentic Statement, Copyright 1948, Publishers' Financial Bureau, Incorporated

If you think you can't afford to give your wife on Christmas some good jewelry, fine furniture, or something else real, it may be O.K. to give her and yourself a good new motor car, provided it has no gear shift. Therefore, I will this week discuss the automobile industry.

What Motor Stocks Have Done

It is very evident from what I learn here in New York that the insiders have been getting out of their motor stocks ever since Harry Truman was re-elected. They fear a fourth round of wages, frozen prices, and a drying up of purchasing power due to the general high cost of living. The following are the prices of stocks on certain dates:

Name of Company	1946	1948 (before election)	1948 (today)
General Motors	80%	65%	57%
Chrysler	141*	80%	52
Studebaker	38½	27	21½
Hudson Motor	34½	17	13½
Nash-Kelvinator	25%	18%	15%
Kaiser-Fraser	17%	10%	8%
Mack Trucks	76%	18%	14

(Ford stocks are all family owned and are not traded on the Exchange)

*Not adjusted to split-up.

Considering the large output of cars which these companies are producing and the apparent good future outlook, today's stock prices are very significant of what the big manufacturers themselves think.

Secondhand Market

Certainly the used-car market is going to smash. If you have doubts, ask any dealer what he will pay you in cash for your old car. In many cases you will find this to be only half what you would have had to pay for the same secondhand car six months ago, while since November 2, 1948 you cannot get a bid for your secondhand trucks.

I do not blame the dealers. They had a terrible time during the war and have been entitled to two years of good business. It seems a shame that they must give to Uncle Sam so much of it in taxes. So many speculative buyers, however, placed orders with several different dealers that the new car market is also messed up. These and other facts will soon be brought out at public hearings in Washington together with accounts of the trade-in-holds-ups and black market transactions.

Why Insiders are Bearish

In asking a large manufacturer why he is not buying his own motor stocks, he said, in addition to whining about coming wage increases, frozen prices and the election: "The 1948-49 cars are not too good anyway. The bodies and mudguards are made of tin; you can't get into some cars without knocking your hat off; the doors are too wide and heavy; the headlights are for ornaments instead of usefulness; while customers are getting tired of being forced to buy all kinds of accessories."

Automobile owners enjoy reading illustrated newspaper advertisements of their own and other cars. These printed advertisements are instructive and interesting, but the public is tired of listening to the automobile ballyhoo that comes over the radio. Owners are at last beginning to realize that they are paying for these expensive radio programs which expense is added to the price of the cars. It is too bad that the automobile dealers must suffer from these extravagant and mistaken policies of the motor car manufacturers.

Motor Stocks as an Investment

Notwithstanding the above comments, I had much rather have my money in a new automobile than in the stock of the company which is manufacturing it. Certainly, I would not buy a secondhand car which had the old standard gear shift. One might as well buy a horse and buggy. Just in closing, let me say that there is one man in the world who could knock my forecasts galleywest. His name is Joe Stalin! If our troops should get mixed up with his soldiers in China or elsewhere, we all would be thankful to own any kind of an automobile at almost any price, especially if Joe should "accidentally" drop a bomb on Detroit!

Large Number Attend John Purcell to Chapter Anniversary Join Merchant Marine

A large number of members and guests were present at the meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter Monday afternoon held at the Chapter House in Newton Lower Falls.

Mrs. James G. Patterson, Regent, presided. Devotions were led by Miss Jane D. Hobart, Chaplain, followed by the Salute to the Flag, the reciting of the American's Creed and the singing of America with Mrs. Holcomb J. Brown as accompanist.

The monthly business meeting followed with reports from committees. Announcement was made of the packing and sending of several Christmas boxes to Crossnore. Two Chapter members have made generous Christmas donations to Crossnore and Hillsdale Schools and to the American Indians cause. The Treasurer, Mrs. Charles W. Blood, reported gratifying results from the Christmas sale held in November and the Rummage sale of October. Holiday gifts for Veterans were contributed and were on display. A large number of beautiful wreaths and sprays of Christmas greens made by Chapter members were on sale during the afternoon and netted over $200.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a talk by Mrs. Arthur T. Gregorian on "Oriental Rugs and the Stories they tell." Displaying several beautiful rugs he told in a very interesting and instructive way how each was made and of the time and vision it takes. Design and workmanship both express the culture and imagination of inherited rug making. He told of the primitive way of living of these people in the Old Countries but said they are happy and contented and love their work. Mr. Gregorian is an authority on his subject and speaks intelligently and convincingly.

Following the program a committee of ladies with Mrs. George S. Maynard and Mrs. Walter R. Amesbury as Co-Chairmen in charge served tea with Mrs. Edward B. Parker and Mrs. J. Walter Allen as pourers. Mrs. Frank S. Larkin, State Treasurer of the D.A.R., cut the delicious cake in celebration of the 52nd Birthday of the Chapter. The next activity of the Chapter will be a "House Committee Bridge" to be held at the Chapter House on January 5th, 1949.

Richard D. Lanoue and Donald A. Lanoue, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Lanoue of Crystal Street, Newton Centre; Russell S. Broad, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Broad of Brush Hill road, Newton Highlands, won scholarship honors for the second marking period of the year at Mount Hermon School.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAW

Landlord and Tenant: Leases

By Arthur W. Blakemore, Attorney

(The right to print, or reprint, any or all of these articles, is prohibited without permission of the author)

THE RELATION OF landlord and tenant arises whenever one occupies premises of another under a contract in some form. The agreement of the parties need not be in writing, but if it is merely oral the tenant is merely a tenant at will, liable to be turned out at any time on proper notice.

The rights of the parties are best protected by a careful lease in writing, covering their whole agreement. The lease should be signed by both parties only after it is fully completed, and each party should keep a copy. Signing an incomplete lease and leaving the other party to fill it out is very unwise and likely to lead to expensive litigation.

If the lease is for a term of not more than seven years, no seal is required; while if it is for more than seven years, it should be under seal, acknowledged and recorded. A written lease may be later modified by oral agreement of the parties, but any such modification should be carefully put in writing and signed to prevent future disagreements.

The premises leased should be carefully described. Any portion of a building, even a wall or a roof, may be leased. The lease will be implied to include passageways or proper means of reaching the leased premises, and leases are in general construed most strongly against the owner.

Leave It to a Women to Do Things For Needy Children

Tell a woman that kids are starving, what'll she do? Chances are she'll go to her cupboard, wrap up a big parcel of food and say, "Where do I send it?"

Ever notice the difference between the way a man and a woman will attack a problem? Take an ordinary household—the woman is preparing supper when she notices that the sink has started leaking. She's just about to take care of it when Junior starts yelling his head off out in the back. He's fallen off his bicycle onto his face and his nose is bleeding. The wife yells for the husband to do something about the leaking kitchen sink as she runs past him to comfort Junior. Ten minutes later when Junior is on his bike again tearing madly around for another spill, the wife comes back into the kitchen and finds her husband with his bag of tools spread out over her kitchen floor preparing to take her sink apart.

"Hey," she yells, "I have to get supper. Get your tools out of here. All you had to do was put a pot under it to catch the drip for now."

There are many big problems and emergencies today which need the men to get out their bag of tools and do some heavy overhauling, but like the leaking kitchen sink, while the men are busy with the long range job, the supper still has to be prepared and the women are needed to put a pot under the leak to prevent a flood on the kitchen floor.

Take the problem of mass hunger in Europe today. Men will work out the long range solution

Spring of this year. There she saw at first hand the devastation, the misery and the ever present hunger which had sought to alleviate. She returned determined to do everything in her power to increase the success of the "Silent Guest" idea.

As we prepare for our holiday season this year, misery and hunger are still the constant lot of the millions of people in the world outside America's shores. There are 230,000,000 children in Europe and Asia suffering from crippling and deadly diseases for lack of essential foods. This year, even more than last year, American families are urged to invite a "Silent Guest" to share in the bounteous repast of Christmas Day. Send the money that such a serving would cost to the Governor of your state or to the American Silent Guest Committee, Inc., New York, N.Y. Let our holiday festival be a festival of Thanks-with-Giving.

Making Noise Like Airplanes And Trains All Part of Program

Playing radio and making noises like an airplane and a train are just plain fun for a group of kindergartners in the Newton Public Schools, but to the speech counselor, Miss Grace Kennedy, it is all part of the program to stimulate speech growth. Each Monday morning the Counseling Services' office becomes school for this group of youngsters with delayed speech development. Here they are taught to make the difficult high frequency sounds like f, v, th, s, z, sh, zh, (p, t, k, ch, b, d, g, j) and to put together words into simple sentences.

After arrangements with elementary school principals the speech counselor conducted a survey in the grade schools this fall. By means of this survey an attempt was made to screen out youngsters who could profit by this particular type of speech help and others who might have defective speech due to hearing loss, emotional disturbance, structural causes, perceptual difficulties and the like. It was found that approximately 400 children in the elementary school were in need of some kind of help with speech. Difficulties ranged all the way from simple lisping due to perseveration of baby habits to severe stuttering, spastic speech and the voice and articulatory defects of the hard of hearing. Approximately 75 elementary school children have been or are receiving individual or group speech lessons at the Counseling Services Office, 100 Washington park, Newtonville. In addition some children of preschool age are received help when their parents became concerned over their delayed speech. Other children with minor speech difficulties are helped by the classroom teacher under the guidance of the speech counselor.

The speech training for the hard of hearing is handled mainly by Mrs. Margaret Childs who is also a reading and speech counselor. Miss Ena Macnutt, hearing counselor, through her yearly testing program screens out children with defective hearing and refers these children to the speech counselors for special speech training. Emphasis is placed mostly on stimulating the residual hearing through auditory training. Interesting stories containing sounds met in every day life or speech sounds needing correction are played for the child while he watches a text at first. To build up his ability to discriminate sounds in the environment, speech records are played against background music, noises, and other records. This builds up a child's tolerance for unexpected noises and develops his ability to concentrate on meaningful sounds.

To motivate a child to the use of his hearing aid, games are devised which will show him the importance of its use in understanding language and in hearing it correctly. Kinesthetic cues are used as well as ear training in correcting sound substitutions.

—It isn't a cheerful thought, but there are those who have come to believe that the world may exist in a state of "cold war" for decades, and that all peoples will continue indefinitely to carry a back-breaking burden of arms. That is the greatest problem civilization faces.

A Shopping I Would Go!

By PATRICIA PATENAUE

Between last minute shopping sprees and trying to find a hiding place for Junior's bicycle, these are busy days, busy but fun. I'd like to give a few suggestions that might come in handy and will provide lots of holiday spirit. Don't overlook the mistletoe! Pin it over the door with a big red bow. Have a bowl of mixed nuts. They just go with Christmas.

Get the young 'uns busy stuffing dates. They love to do it and the dates make mighty good eating. Declare a baking day. Then you can turn out cookies galore in shapes of trees and santas with no interruptions. How about clearing the mantel and making it into a scene of the stable in Bethlehem? An Egg Nog party is a real holiday tradition. If you're doubtful about a recipe drop me a line in care of the Graphic and I'll send you one right away. It's a recipe my family has used for years with grand success.

And most important of all, join in the holiday spirit. The beautiful carols, the contagious feeling of good will, and the gay excitement are all for you. So get busy making this Merry Christmas really merry!

Carol, 4 — A yellow stuffed monkey, $4.95, that would make any little girl squeal with joy.

Aunt Helen — A smooth, shimmering slip of luxurious satin. In a shy blue with wide lace trim, it was wonderful for $3.95.

Tommy, 4 — There's nothing like a red fire engine with a rip-roaring siren and big ladder. Just $1.65.

By Carol Lane

For a woman: A light-weight traveling iron with folding handle; a pair of driving gloves; zipper closed bottle guard with cushioned waterproof lining for perfume and cosmetic bottles; a handy make-up mirror to be attached to the back of the sun shade; a set of traveling mirrors, one magnifying, one plain, in a carrying case; a traveling clock; new seat covers

or a cushion; an overnight fitted case; fender parking guide. For a man: A swivel-head flashlight; double-faced, red plastic reflecting lenses to set out when changing tires; fog lights; a spot light; a compass with suction cup for attaching to the windshield or dashboard; hydraulic jack; a new set of chains; an electric razor which operates from the cigarette lighter plug; fancy bumper guards; an automatic lighter which delivers lighted cigarettes.

For the family: A picnic kit with two-quart thermos bottles and metal sandwich box; wool auto robe with canvas zipper carrying case; a trouble light operating from cigarette plug; defrosting and ventilating fan with rubber blades; a portable radio for car or picnic use; a set of plastic seat covers; a wicker basket for picnic use; a combination bassinet, mattress and car seat for infants; portable cooking stove; leather map holder; a mileage and expense record book for trips; an insulated formula bag; folding camp stools; a portable crib folding to suitcase size; water jug with spigot.

And a gift for everybody—drive safely.

Herbs Will Give That Extra Touch To Your Fish Dishes

All over America women are learning about the special goodness of herbs in cooking—especially fish cookery. Do you know how herbs can lift everyday dishes up to feast-day foods, by adding a touch, an accent, a personality flavor? Are you letting thyme, tarragon, marjoram, dill and bay leaf bring compliments to your broiled haddock, cod, or salmon. An inexpensive dish can make your family sit up and observe. "Oh, Mom, this is super—It tastes different, somehow. Let's have it tomorrow, can we?"

Let's say you've been using sage, chili powder, celery and onion salt, curry powder, horseradish. Maybe thyme, too, as well as parsley, caraway seed, chives and garlic occasionally. Why not try other "fine herbs" as well as "robust herbs?" Fine herbs are basil, chervil, marjoram, garden thyme, rosemary, tarragon, and chives. The robust herbs are borage, wild marjoram, mint, sage, summer savory, winter savory, sorrel, caraway, fennel, dill, horseradish, and parsley. Chain stores or food specialty shops everywhere carry herb-seasonings.

Of these, thyme, tarragon, bay leaf and parsley are "considered" herbs especially suitable for fish cookery. Delightful surprises, however, await those who experience the special savorness of other herbs used either separately or in special combinations. Sweet basil and chervil, for instance, are a gourmet-combination; also sweet marjoram and garden thyme; while rosemary and tarragon make an unusual dish wherever you will let them.

The English use fennel, minced or tied in bunches for boiling fat fish such as mackerel or salmon—and Southern cooks agree with them. Others like chopped fresh mint leaves or mint sauce. Still other homemakers and hostesses are winning laurels by using dill and borage to pick up and subtly enhance the delicate flavor of the fish.

"But my family doesn't like highly seasoned foods," you may be saying. Don't season foods highly with herbs, is our answer. Use just a whisper, a wee pinch or mere whiffle, to produce that magic for which herbs are famous. And the diplomatic way to introduce herbs to our family is by way of herb butters. Make them up and store them in little earthenware, airtight containers in your refrigerator. Let a piece of herb butter the size of a small nut melt atop each serving of broiled fish, to permeate the juices and blend them into new richness. (Vegetables too like herb flavors. Use herb butters on string beans, peas, spinach, asparagus, carrots, and mushrooms.)

To make herb butters, use unsalted butter because salted butter develops a watery fluid which refuses to mix with herb flavors. Use 2 ounces of sweet butter (4 tbs.) with ½ teaspoon of any one of the fine herbs. First cream the butter, then add a few drops of lemon juice. Then work in the herbs. Try the famous combinations first: basil-chervil or sweet marjoram-garden thyme or rosemary-tarragon. One thing to remember is that ONE tablespoon of fresh herbs, chopped, is equal to half a teaspoon of dried chopped herbs and ¼ teaspoon of powdered herbs. Just before using herb butter, season it with salt and pepper—perhaps add a teaspoonful of chopped chives or parsley.

Baked Fillets Florentine With Herb Butter

1½ lbs. fish fillets
3 c. cooked, seasoned spinach
3 tbs. vegetable shortening
3 tbs. flour
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1½ c. milk
1 c. grated cheese
1 c. soft bread crumbs, buttered.
Put fish in saucepan with 1 qt. water, 2 tsp. salt, a bay leaf, and 2 tbs. vinegar (tarragon vinegar if possible). Bring to a boil; then simmer 10 minutes, or until tender. Place spinach in shallow greased baking dish and arrange fillets over top. Make a sauce by melting shortening in saucepan, adding flour, salt, pepper, and blending well. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly and cook until thickened. Add cheese. Pour over fish in baking dish and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until crumbs are browned. After turning off oven heat, dot top of the dish with 2 or 3 small balls of basil-chervil butter, let melt while the rest of the meal is being assembled to serve. This dish serves 6 to 8.

Turn and grill flesh side up, until fish flakes when tried with a fork. Turn off heat, place on heated platter, and put 3 or 4 balls of herb butter on top of fish. Leave in oven until ready to bring to table. Garnish with watercress. Serves 6 to 8.

Telephone Co. Seeks Raise In Rates

As a result of further wage increases granted last September and in order to obtain earnings considered necessary on its Massachusetts investment, the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company Thursday of last week sought an additional seven per cent in increased annual revenues from its intrastate operations in Massachusetts. This new amount, the company said, is urgently needed to meet requirements for telephone service in the Commonwealth.

The company's action was in the form of a motion requesting the Department of Public Utilities to receive supplementary evidence in the case now before the Department arising from the company's filing for increased rates last April.

In its filing of last April the company sought the Department's authorization of rates to increase revenues by 15 per cent, including five per cent temporary, early allowed by the Department in July, 1947, on an emergency basis. The amount sought today would bring revenues from increased rates to a total of 22 per cent above prewar levels, it was stated. The company pointed out that such an increase in Massachusetts, such as 95 per cent for food, 94 per cent for fuel, 90 per cent for clothing and 63 per cent for the overall cost of living.

Commenting on the company's action, Joe E. Harrell, President of the company, stated that the company's earnings during 1948 and anticipated earnings on present rates in 1949 clearly show the need for additional revenues. In Massachusetts since 1940, he said, revenues per telephone have increased 21 per cent, but expenses have increased 47 per cent and earnings have gone down 38 per cent.

"During a period when the leading manufacturers of this country are reporting record earnings, the earnings of our company dropped to the lowest point in over 50 years," he said. "Moreover, this decline in earnings is taking place at a time when we are doing more business than ever before and at a time when we have been expanding our facilities at a pace greater than that ever experienced."

"The telephone business like many other businesses has been affected seriously by rising costs that marked the postwar period of inflation."

"For example, as wage rates in other industries were raised during and since the war, wage rates for telephone employees were correspondingly increased. The impact of these wage rate increases, together with the employment of 10,000 additional men and women throughout the state, has increased our total wages in Massachusetts from $27 million in 1940 to over $70 million in 1948. This is an increase of 156 per cent and as a result wages now absorb 87 cents of every dollar we receive from telephone service."

"The total wages of $70 million paid in 1948 to telephone men and women in Massachusetts is only a part of the contribution that the telephone business makes to the prosperity of the state. The company employs 27,000 people in Massachusetts, pays taxes of $9 million on its Massachusetts operations and one of its suppliers, the Western Electric Company, alone purchased $16 million worth of materials and supplies from businesses located in Massachusetts. These things spell additional benefits to many thousands of people and businesses throughout the state."

"The company's program of expansion and development had to be carried on at postwar prices, and with all the new telephone added since the war to meet service requirements, the average plant investment for the postwar period is $328 per telephone. This is about double the average cost of $174 per telephone for the five-year period prior to the war and reflects higher building costs, higher costs of pole line and conduit work, higher costs of copper and lead as well as the many other materials used in telephone construction."

"Further expansion and development of our facilities is necessary to furnish better service for existing customers, to complete over 150,000 orders for party line customers who are waiting for individual lines and to provide new service for 16,000 people still on our waiting list."

"It will take a lot of capital to build the telephone plant required for this new construction and that capital must come from the savings of men and women all over America. They will invest their savings in the telephone business only if they are convinced that earnings on the money they invest in the business are at a reasonable level."

"Good telephone service in Massachusetts depends on these people continuing to put their money into the business, so we can go ahead with the big job of building the plant needed to expand and improve telephone service."

"These increases in telephone revenues are necessary so that we will be able to go forward with our program to give Massachusetts the good service it needs—and in doing this, to increase steadily the usefulness and value of telephone service throughout the Commonwealth."

Avalanche of Christmas Mail

Although handling a daily record mail load over the past six months, postal officials report that they are receiving a Christmas mail load far in excess of former years. They do advise, however, that parcels for the far west which have not yet been mailed have little or no chance of Christmas delivery unless they are sent by air parcel post, special delivery or special handling. Mail for Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington closed for Christmas delivery on December 3rd, while parcels for delivery in a large part of the mid-west and the South closed on Wednesday of this week.

More and more business establishments are sending packages by parcel post and conservative estimates place the increase at 40 per cent over one year ago. Acting Postmaster Francis A. Crowley has issued an appeal to the public to please cooperate this year by mailing packages and cards even earlier than last year. Care in packaging is stressed with the use of heavier cartons strongly recommended.

Greeting cards for western states which are to go forward by surface means should be mailed at once. It is suggested that they be sent by first-class mail in sealed envelopes with the name and address of the sender shown at the upper left corner of the envelope.

Persons who plan to mail gift packages are urged to bring them to the post office in the morning so as to avoid heavy postoffice traffic when business houses are depositing mail in the afternoon. The purchase of stamps now, in anticipation of Christmas card needs is recommended. A good idea for stamps this year is that of using commemorative stamps. These special stamps are welcomed by the thousands of collectors in Greater Boston.

Airlines are prepared to move a tremendous load of air parcel post this Christmas and all post-offices have been given special instructions concerning the dispatch of this mail. Be sure addresses are complete and correct and are written in ink or type-written. Do not use pencil. The use of postal zone numbers in the address will help the post-office to expedite the mail.

Recent Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joseph Deveney of West Roxbury have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Frances Deveney, to Mr. M. Brent Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Berry of Newton.

Miss Deveney is a graduate of the Academy of Notre Dame, Roxbury and of Framingham Teachers' College. She is a member of the Junior League of Catholic Women and the Proprietary Club.

Mr. Berry served in the Army for three years during which time he was in the South Pacific a year and a half. He is now attending Emerson College.

Ease up in a freeze-up! The National Safety Council says when the mercury goes down, traffic accidents go up. The reasons: slippery pavement, poor visibility. Keep your mind and your windshield clear—and slow down.

Trail Trails

By Joe Patenaude

Christmas is just a week away, and I hope the ski season's not far behind. You fans will start making trips to your favorite ski land. Some of you will take longer trips to "dream places." "Package Vacation" idea. Whatever you do, your friends will want to know about it. Let me tell them about your trip, your experiences, and what-have-you. Just drop me a line in care of the Graphic.

Latest word from Plymouth, N.H., is a new tow on the beginner's slope, so there'll be two of them in operation on that slope this winter. The Intermediate slope has a tow too, and there are several trails on both the East and North slope.

Skiers interested in competition may be interested in examination dates and locations for class ratings. There are also some rule changes that you should be acquainted with. You can get this information from: U. S. Eastern Amateur Ski Association, 1416 Mass. Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

With due apologies to the Pan-American I must correct a statement I made last week. Their cheapest all-expense trip to Europe is $685, for two persons, not just one. This is a two week trip to Davos and with all expenses paid. $343, per person is not bad, to say the least!

If you beginners have trouble mastering your turns and snowplow, take a trip to Lac Beauport, near Quebec, Canada. You will probably see Jean Gosselin demonstrating his graceful technique, and on one leg. I guess it can be done with two all right!

Ski Jumps

Haven't heard any more about the ski project for the Boy Scouts. What happened? It sounded like a good idea! . . . Here are some Newtonites who will soon be "supersonic drifters," thanks to Bob Johnson: Joan Fanning, Phyllis Kowland, Barbara Janse, Edward Janse, Sandra Janse, Barbara Mitchell, Agnes Monahan, Palma Mullen, Audrey Raisbeck, Virginia Rozvar, and Shirley Thernmond.

Good news for fans who can't get away for whole weekends is the building of a new tow at the Happy Valley Country Club in Lynn. . . . Don't know about you but I'm hoping for a White Christmas. I'd like a little less waxing and a little more skiing.

Bowles-Taylor

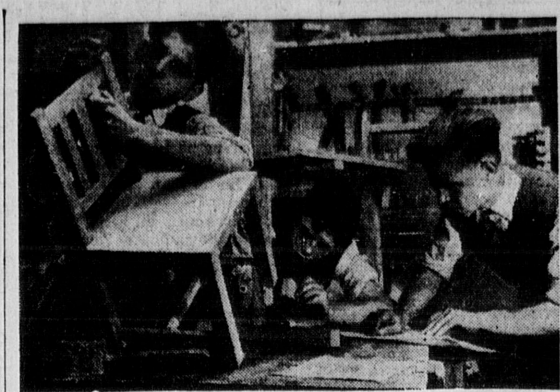

In the Davis Chapel of the First Church, Worcester on December 4, Miss Holly Taylor, formerly of 123 Sargent street, Newton, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Charles Hardy of Worcester and Capt. James Davis Taylor, 3rd, U. S. N. (retired) of Boston, became the bride of Chester Bowles Jr., son of Mrs. John Gordon Winchester of New York and Chester Bowles of Essex, Conn., Governor-elect of Connecticut. Rev. Dr. Thomas Sherman Roy performed the ceremony. A reception for the immediate families and a few close friends was held at the Tatnuck Country Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of cream satin with fitted bodice and chapel train. Her veil of rosepoint lace had been worn by the bridegroom's grandmother, his mother and sister at their weddings, and the necklace and earrings which she wore were heirlooms in her family. She carried a small bouquet of stephanotis with streamers of myrtle and myrtle was wound around the left sleeve of her gown.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Sarah Hardy, who wore an ankle length dress of shadow print organza with a sash of deep blue velvet and carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and pink cyclamen which matched her headpiece.

Murray Mogel of New York was the best man and the ushers were Charles Aldrich Winchester of Boston and Gordon Winchester of New York.

The bride attended the Bancroft School and the College of the University of Chicago. She is a provisional member of the Junior League of Worcester, Inc. Mr. Bowles is a graduate of the Pomfret School, Pomfret, Conn. and the College of the University of Chicago.

FIT FOR A PRINCE . . . Students at the Russell schools in England are shown working at pieces of furniture that will be used in England's new Prince's nursery. Pupils at the school offered to make the furniture, table linen and first dress to be worn by the new Prince, and Princess Elizabeth announced that she will accept and use the offerings.

Lasell Jr. College Closes For Vacation

Lasell Junior College will close for the Christmas Holidays Friday. Classes will be resumed Monday, January 4.

MacLean-Putnam

With the altar entirely banked in white gladioli, the Presbyterian Church at Newton Corner was the scene of the wedding recently of Ruth Lorraine Putnam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Fleming of West Newton when she exchanged marriage vows with Mr. Donald Allen MacLean of Wellesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick MacLean of Cape Cod, Nova Scotia.

The bride in period gown of white satin with finger tip veil, was given in marriage by her father and had as her attendants: her cousin Miss Katherine Dunlop of West Newton, in American Beauty moire as maid of honor; Miss Marguerite MacLean of Providence, sister of the groom and Miss Myrtle Stewart of Montreal as bridesmaids, gowned alike in green moire. Mr. Archibald Butchman of Wellesley acted as best man for Mr. MacLean. Mr. Roy MacLean of Cape Cod and Mr. Gordon Dunlop of Newton as ushers. Presiding at the console of the organ for the nuptial music was Miss Olive MacPherson of Somerville, who also accompanied Mr. William Gihlm of Boston, who sang preceding the ceremony.

A reception followed in the church parlors. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, parents of the bride, Mrs. Fleming in a fitted gown of sapphire crepe with matching lace bodice, and Mrs. Butchman, aunt of the groom, in jade green crepe with gold motif. Some two hundred guests were served from tables decorated with fall flowers and set with silver appointments, presided over by girl friends of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean, who were widely entertained prior to their marriage, spent their honeymoon in New York and on their return will make their home in Waltham.

Rotary Club

Last Monday's speaker was L. R. Lyon of the Shell Oil Company, who told how the oil industry in Massachusetts is experimenting all the time how to use oil in more ways.

At the present time there are 10,000 researchers working at a cost of around $50,000,000 a year. Since the days when oils were first located men have been experimenting with oil and its uses, starting with a way to better lamp oil. Now there are 1100 separate items in which are used oil in some form, including 200 parts used in auto manufacturing. There is some article everyone uses during the day that has oil in some form in it.

A new stainless steel, developed by the Quartermaster Corps, resists rust and corrosion and retains a better cutting edge than standard cutlery carbon steel.

Warns Against Small Toys For Children

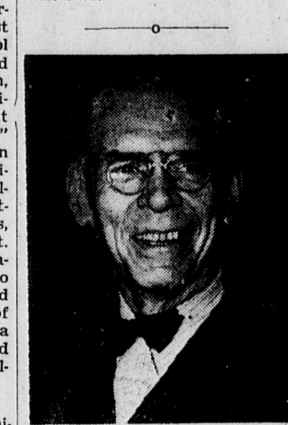

"In selecting a Christmas toy for a child, don't buy one smaller than his two closed fists," Frank Dowcett, chairman of the Safety Services of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, warns.

And infants being such omnivorous little creatures, he strongly urged that their toys be of one piece, with no removable parts, and colored with paints not having a poisonous base.

Children in the two-year group like toys with motion. These would not, however, include jet-propelled kiddy cars even though Dad might insist on one.

"Five-year olds are great imitators," Mr. Dowcett said, "and suitable for them are toys similar to articles used by mother and dad. This age group also likes vehicles to ride." "However," he said, "they should not be so large that the child has to grow-to-fit." A vehicle too large to handle properly is dangerous.

"If your child is upwards of ten years old, he can play with almost any toy, providing he receives proper instructions in its use. It's with a child this age that dad can begin giving rein to his imagination in choosing gifts for his own as well as the child's amusement—if he hasn't already," the safety service chairman said.

Today, in Boston and 39 surrounding towns and cities served by Boston Edison Company, the average home customer, using approximately 100 kilowatt hours a month, pays less for electricity than ever before in history. We are proud to make this announcement.

The latest Boston Edison rate reduction, to be shared by 356,000 household customers, is the third since 1938 and makes it truer than ever that ELECTRICITY is the SHINING EXCEPTION TO THE RULE OF HIGH PRICES.

Deficit Spending Can't Last Forever

The Government of the United States has spent $1,430,000,000 more than it has received in taxes during the last five months, according to Budget-Director James E. Webb, who says that spending in 1950 will certainly be more than the $42,000,000,000 expended this year.

With this news, the Budget-Director warns that unless Federal taxes go up, the Government will face a deficit in the next fiscal year. He points out that demands for Government services are increasing and calls attention to the financial requirements of the European Recovery Program, National Defense and interest on the public debt.

Taking cognizance of the items mentioned by Mr. Webb and considering the large sums that the Government spends for the benefit of veterans of past wars, it is not easy to disagree with the statement of the Budget-Director. In fact, in view of the drains upon the Federal Treasury, it is easy to conclude that tax reductions went into effect too soon and that a wiser fiscal policy would have collected larger sums during the nation's years of unprecedented individual incomes.

When the first proposal for tax reductions was being debated in Congress, we pointed out that the cut would be for the benefit of corporations and that it was important for the United States to maintain its levies in order to reduce the national debt. The same observation was naturally made when a subsequent tax reduction extended some benefits to individuals. It was apparent then that unless the nation reduced its national debt in times of prosperity, there would be no opportunity to do so when business conditions declined.

It is about time for the people of the United States to recognize that, while it is entirely proper for the Government to go into debt during a temporary emergency, there is little excuse for increasing the national debt in prosperous times. While no one suspects that the United States is approaching bankruptcy as a nation, everybody has sense enough to know that deficit spending cannot be indefinitely prolonged without causing a collapse of the financial structure, not only of the Government but of the entire nation.

It will be necessary, before the nation can operate on a sound fiscal budget, for the people of the country to restrain their demands upon all units of government. Not only is the Federal Government besieged with pleas to spend public money for sectional and selfish benefits, but the same habit has permeated state and local governments.

The idea that public funds should be spent solely and exclusively for the general public benefit has been seriously damaged by the practice of politicians in seeking to "bring home the bacon."
While it is nice, no doubt, to eat meat, which some other people pay for, the people must learn that it is impossible to have more meat and less taxes.

The Back Yard
Gardener

"He has only what he gives away."

While I'm still cynical and feel that everyone is fundamentally selfish, there is a lot of truth in that old adage, so I'm suggesting a few Christmas decorations made at home and given away as presents. There's much more to it than buying a gift in the store.

In order to get in as many suggestions as possible I'm going to be blunt and to the point.

For a wreath, first make a foundation of frame of wood or wire. Have two or three bends in your hoop. Long shoots of willow, lilac, or forsythia can be bent in a circle and wired together to make a frame. Use No. 9 wire for making the frame and No. 22 or 24 for binding the evergreen material to the frame. From there on the wreath is determined only by your imagination.

Just one other suggestion:
once you start binding, do not remove the left hand from the frame and do not cut the binder. Continue winding all the way around the frame back to the starting point. Oh, yes, wear cotton gloves.

For a table centerpiece all you need is a block of wood or an old tin plate with some sphagnum moss or peat moss which you keep wet to keep the evergreens moist and of course some string or wire for binding the moss to the block of wood.
Use a dummy candle made of an old broom handle to save your good candle while making the centerpiece. From there on again it's your imagination that limits the centerpiece.

Here are a few other quickies.
Fill the porch boxes with evergreen boughs. If the soil is moist, these cut evergreens will last for a long time. Add a touch of colored berries. Incidentally, make a fresh cut and keep your Christmas tree standing in water. That will keep the tree relatively safe from fire.

Ordinary water glass (used in storing eggs) can be sprayed on greens to help control fire.

Wind white pipecleaners around red candles. Then place or tie a few evergreens on the candle base with a red ribbon.
A red pipecleaner around a white candle would do just as well.

Dust white candles with silver or aluminum dust. This can be done by dipping a piece of cotton in the dry dust and use as a brush. Just a good way to cover up dirty candles or change the color of the ones you have.

Miniature evergreen place cards are nice. Make some plaster of paris patties about the size of a dropped cookie. Insert a small cone and an evergreen shoot into the plaster before it dries. The scales of the cone will hold the place card.

A small birch log, 2 inches in length, makes a nice place card.
The person's name can be written right on the bark and a candle can be inserted or stuck to the end.

Cheese graters make excellent old time lanterns for the fireplace candle.

Ordinary paper cups covered with colored tinfoil, turned upside down, and a string through the bottom, make bells. Tin cans covered with ribbon or painted red make good containers for evergreen shoots. Punch holes with the ice pick.

That Christmas wreath might be made half-size to make an archway.

One branch of yew is a complete mantel decoration in itself, and red ribbon running from the table centerpiece to each place is an attractive addition to the Christmas table.

May all your Christmases be bright.

Tuberculosis Can Not Be Determined
By Fingerprints

"Susceptibility to poliomyelitis and tuberculosis cannot be determined by examining fingerprints," declared Dr. Viado A. Getting, Commissioner of Public Health, today issuing a joint statement by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and the Massachusetts Medical Society.

"Any claim that this can be done," the statement continues,
"is based upon entirely inadequate observations and should not be regarded seriously."

"Recently school superintendents and other persons have been approached by persons with plans to fingerprint all schoolchildren. Such a program is a recognized procedure and should be carried out upon the basis of its value in identifying people in case of accident or disaster.
It should be unnecessary to trump up false claims that fingerprints can be used to determine susceptibility to various diseases in order to sell a program of accurate identification."

"The claim that susceptibility to disease is recorded in the fingerprint is based upon the writing of one individual—a teacher without a medical degree in one of the medical schools of the country. This is a far cry from general acceptance by the medical profession and fingerprinting experts. Certainly this is an extremely insecure basis for the claims which are being so confidently made."

Christmas Seals
Your Gift of Hope
To Those Afflicted

The 28 local committees that compose the Norfolk County Health Association have combined this week in a special Christmas reminder—when you mail your Christmas letters and packages, don't forget to put Christmas Seals on them.

"Your purchase and use of the Seals," the message to the public says, "is a gift of hope and cheer to over 100 victims of tuberculosis now being cared for at the County Hospital, Braintree. This is one of the most important and human programs maintained year after year by the county tuberculosis organization. It brings hope in a very practical sense. When the patient's strength is sufficiently restored, after complete bed-rest, the only known cure, the proceeds of the annual seal sale provide many handicraft courses."

Rural Network
The Rural Radio Network, organized recently in New York State, is expected to encompass Massachusetts within the next few months. Beamed exclusivly to FM reception, the Rural

What Is Christmas!

What is Christmas? It is the unrestrained joy of merry little children. It is the earnest hope of the little waif whose nose is pressed eagerly against the dazzling window of the toy shop. It is the mature happiness of parents who have sacrificed and who understand God's great gift because they too have given their best. Christmas is the soft silence of falling snow. It is the twinkling of a thousand star-like lights. It is the angel song that is heard only in the ready heart. Christmas is love which bids hatred, envy, and strife be still in all the world. Christmas is peace which passeth all understanding.

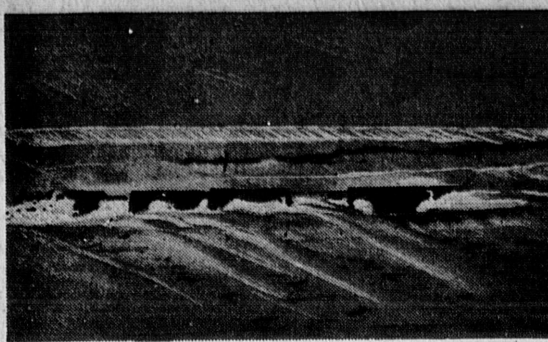

Because Christmas is so much and means so many different things to so many different people, it is well to note what it should mean to all people at all times. Christmas means that in the darkness of a very dark world, God gave His Son, to bring light and healing for the hearts and lives of men. He gave this great gift quietly amid common mean surroundings. God's Son was born in a stable amid the beasts of burden. Many men who loved the ornate things of life could not believe God could so humble himself, so they went their way unbelieving. Men in power, when they heard of God's gift, tried to extinguish the Light for they feared for their position of prominence and wealth. But the Light continued to shine in spite of all that wicked indifference men could do. The Light still shines and those who would walk in the Light may do so in spite of the darkness.

Christmas also has deep meaning for those whose hearts have been heavy with woe, for those whom the darkness has almost overwhelmed. The Christmas song promises healing and help. The angels herald the Light of God's own Presence here and the hope of the life to come hereafter. The Star of Bethlehem blazes forth the earnest expectation of a new day and a new life.

As we have sung these past 100 years:

"O ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the climbing way,
With painful steps and slow,
Look now! For glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing;
O rest beside the weary road
And hear the angels sing!"

May your Christmas joy be meaningful,
Richard P. McClintock, Rector.

Therapist Lack Hits Physically Handicapped

A shortage of approximately 30,000 trained physical therapists and about the same number of trained occupational therapists is preventing America from adequately meeting the problem of its physically handicapped, according to two experts in these fields who were in Boston this week.

Here in the interests of the Bay State Society for Crippled and Handicapped, Inc., the Easter Seal agency, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin Wagner of New York, occupational therapy consultant for the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and Miss Mary Eleanor Brown, physical therapy consultant for the same organization, pointed out that in many places, for example, a program for the benefit of children suffering from cerebral palsy is being held up simply because there are not sufficient trained workers available.

"In Massachusetts," Miss Brown declared in an interview, "an excellent beginning has been made on a program for children with cerebral palsy through the Bay State Society. But it is only a beginning. Through such projects as the Bay State Nursery School for Children with Cerebral Palsy at 355 Boylston street, Boston, and other centers it has opened elsewhere, the organization is demonstrating what can be accomplished in making many of the handicapped useful members of society. ever, the general public has not yet been sufficiently aroused to the needs."

While in Massachusetts, Miss Brown and Mrs. Wagner conferred with parents of handicapped youngsters and visited various centers operated by the Bay State Society with the funds it raises through its annual Easter Seal Sale.

Discover Unpublished Tale By Author of "Moby Dick"

Some intensive literary detective work by a Cornell scholar has brought to light a heretofore unpublished and unknown short story by the author, Herman Melville.

The literary find — "Baby Budd, Sailor" — was discovered by F. Barron Freeman, former Harvard English instructor and now assistant professor of English at Cornell, while editing manuscripts of Melville's last novel, "Billy Budd, Foretopman", for publication.

The new short story, together with the complete text of the novel, and an analysis of Melville's writings have just been published by the Harvard University Press in a volume titled "Melville's Billy Budd."

The discovery of the short story, coming over 50 years after the death of the author of "Moby Dick," "Typee," and "White-Jacket," will assist scholars in studying the creative process by which Melville achieved his particular prose style. Providing the only sustained example of Melville's creative method in unproved form, the Billy Budd manuscripts support the belief that Melville "began with outer truths, and as he wrote, sensed the inner truths which they symbolized."

Earlier novels by Melville also show this technique. For instance, "Typee," Mr. Freeman says, "would seem first to have been conceived as a freely-handled travel book" which was given marked psychological and philosophical overtones in its later chapters. Likewise, "Moby Dick" began as a fictionalized autobiography of the author's whaling adventures, but later was rewritten into what Melville himself called a "wicked book" and "hideous allegory."

"Billy Budd, Foretopman," which now appears for the first time with the complete and accurate text and all variant readings, was first written as a fictionalized account of an incident taken from American naval history. Later it became "Baby Budd, Sailor," and then the full novel. Mr. Freeman adds that the short story is a revelation of Melville's "primary artistic inspiration."

Discovery of the short story was made quite by accident. While going through the Melville manuscripts in the Harvard College Library, Mr. Freeman became suspicious of the existence of the short story within the novel. Melville's habit of writing with both pen and pencil and with crayons of several different colors, gave Mr. Freeman the lead to the short story. On the basis of parallel tabulations of the multiple sets of numbered pages, Mr. Freeman was able to put the whole short story together.

The final result was the discovery of a 12,000 word short story embedded in a 36,000 word novel.

In his introduction to the volume, Mr. Freeman also discusses the last years of Melville's life. Contrary to these critics who have described Melville as a "muddle-minded old man," he contends that Melville even in his last years was "outwardly and inwardly content," and "a sensitive writer who occupied himself with the human or earthly manifestations of the metaphysical problems of good and evil until his death in 1891."

About Home Leases
William F. Riley, area rent director of the Eastern Massachusetts Area Rent Office, has received numerous inquiries relative to the status of housing accommodations subject to a lease terminating on December 31, 1948. In answer to this question today, Mr. Riley has issued the following statement:
"Under the provisions of the 1948 Amendment to the Housing and Rent Act these housing accommodations are recontrolled with a maximum legal rent in the same amount as the rent speci-ed in the terminated lease. On or after January 1, 1949, the landlord of such housing accommodations may file petitions for adjustment of the rent on any of the numerous grounds for increase specified in the regulation."
Riley also pointed out that

Says Replacement Costs a Big Factor
Last Thursday night was "Village Night" at the Men's Club of West Newton and the Club recognized the occasion by having as its guests Mayor Lockwood, Director of Public Works Willard S. Pratt, and Chief of Police Purcell.
President A. Fred Whiting turned the meeting over to Roland F. Gammons, chairman of the Village Committee, who introduced the speakers.
Mayor Lockwood stated that the costs of city government have risen in keeping with other living costs and that one of the major factors resulting required large expenditures today was the severe curtailment of city expenditures for maintenance and replacement during the 1930's followed by the war years.
Expenditures in 1948 were 64 per cent over the 1938 figures due to necessary improvements, replacements, and increased costs.
Since 1920, the population of the city has grown 80 per cent to the present total of 83,000, which is another factor contributing to the rising costs of city government. The Mayor stated that every effort is being made to keep expenditures down by improving the efficiency of the various departments and by improved techniques. Credit for much of the success in these efforts is due to the ability of the various department heads.
Mr. Pratt outlined the development of the Public Works program instituted in 1946 and requested the cooperation of Newton citizens with the Department of Public Works and

Hundreds of Graduates to Attend Alumni Reunion Party
Replies from the twenty-five hundred notices sent to members of the Newton High School Alumni Association indicate the tremendous enthusiasm and intent of several hundred to be present at the Holiday Reunion Party to be held at the High School Wednesday, December 29th at 8 p.m.
The entertainment program, featuring movies of school activities from 1929 to the present, an ace acrobatic dancer, life-sized puppets, and an outstanding imitator and impersonator as well as dancing to a famous dance band, has attracted wide attention because of the all-Newton cast.
Members of the faculty, past and present, have been invited and will join the alumni in renewing old acquaintances.
Officers of the association are:
President, Howard Whitmore,
Jr.; vice-president, Vincent E.
Wentworth; treasurer, William J. Payne; secretary, Miss Eleanor Richmond and members of the Flanders, Robert C. Bankart, and Eugene Cronin. The committee to the officers, includes Mr. and Mrs. J. Carleton McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin K. Hoyt, Mrs.

Eugenia Copeland, and Gilbert
J. Champagne.

the door of the auditorium and

With Holiday Affairs

To Present Services At Early Hour
Rev. Orrin L. Kosmo, Minister of the Unitarian Church, Newton Centre, announces that the congregation will present a Christmas Eve Service for the benefit of all who would like to come. The hour for beginning the Service is made especially early so that children and elderly folks will find it possible to attend.
Mr. Kosmo pointed out that so many Christmas Eve Services are held too late in the evening for children and elderly folk to be present. Therefore the beginning hour of the Service is set for 7 p.m. The Service is called a Family Christmas Eve Service. It is planned both as to the hour and as to contents for the benefit of the entire family.
The Service will last one hour and a quarter. The congregation will receive the benediction at 8:15 p.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all people of Newton.
Mr. R. Williamson, the organist, will begin the Nativity music at 7 o'clock. Miss Betty Jones, the church soloist, will sing several Nativity solos. The Litany and Carol Service follows at 7:30.
Mr. Kosmo's brief ten minutes sermon will be on the subject:
"Christmas is Something You Feel Inside Yourself." The Candle-lighting, in which all will participate, will form the climax of the Service.
The Church is located at the junction of Centre and Cypress streets, right on Newton Centre Square.

Newcomers Club Has Seventh Anniversary
Last Friday at the Newton Highlands Workshop the Newton Newcomers' Club celebrated their seventh anniversary at their annual Christmas party.
The tea table was very attractive with its centerpiece of a beautifully decorated birthday cake surrounded by Christmas greens and decorations.
Mrs. Matthias J. Flaherty, the Club's president, presented corsages to Mrs. Herbert J. Ham and Mrs. Charles W. Corkum, Charter members; she also presented corsages to the past presidents who were at the meeting, Mrs. Arthur Weinstock, Mrs. Robert L. Ridel, Mrs. J. B. Maloney, Mrs. Carl A. Albrecht, Mrs. Stanley Robinson, Mrs. Edgar M. Brister and Mrs. R. W. Blaisfield.
Two guests were introduced—Mrs. John Connor and Mrs. Richard Schoolmaster.
Mrs. Codrum and Mrs. Ham cut the anniversary cake which was served with the dessert.
Then each member received a gift from Santa's bag as it was passed around.
Prize winners for the afternoon of bridge were Mrs. Herbert J. Ham, Mrs. Jefferson Borden, Mrs. O. S. Grunden, Mrs.

be held at the high school De-public showing of movies taken of school activities. The pic-

Will Your Life Insurance be TAXED?

Life insurance paid to your wife under so-called "optional modes" of settlement may be taxed at your death, or it may be tax free, depending on the terms of your policies.
Review your policies with your lawyer and insurance underwriter. You may be able to save thousands of dollars in taxes for your family.
At the same time, review the plans you have made for the distribution of all your other property. Your life insurance is merely one part of an overall estate plan.

Christmas Seal Now Past $10,000 Mark

Christmas seal sale receipts, well ahead of last year's returns for the same date, passed the $10,000 mark on Monday this week, it is reported by the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association. A total of $10,647 has been received in the annual drive which is scheduled to continue until March 31, 1949. The funds will be used to continue the fight against tuberculosis by means of chest X-rays, health education, medical research, and rehabilitation. At the head of the drive this year is Mrs.
Charles H. Clark of Newton, who is assisted by representatives of the Newton women's clubs.

Asks Holiday Be Kept Accident-Free

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood today called upon the people of Newton to join the National Safety Council and 130 other national cooperating organizations to make Christmas an accident-free holiday celebration this year.
"Christmas time is not only the season to be merry," the mayor said, "it is the season to be wary as well. The extra holiday hazards demand extra caution in meeting and overcoming them.
"We can have a safe and happy Christmas if every one of us makes up his mind to celebrate safely. A little extra caution, common sense and courtesy wrapped up in one big package will bring the gift of an accident-free holiday to all of us.
"Remember that if you and I look upon safety during the holiday celebration as our own personal responsibility to ourselves and our families, if our neighbors down the block make safety their responsibility, and if the people on the next street do likewise, it will be an easy job for all of us in Newton to make this year's Christmas celebration the safest and merriest we have ever had."

Christmas The American Way

It is Noel and holly time again! Children are listening for the hearty chuckle of old Kris Kringle and the tinkle of the jingle bells. Yes, it is the night before Christmas. The stockings are hung and the Christmas tree is nodding its head happily from the prominent corner in the living room. At last, the little sleepy heads are tucked into bed.

So, this is Christmas Eve. It is a beautiful and wonderful time of year. It is not only a time for exchanging presents and making merry but a time for remembering the Christ Child who was born in a manger in Bethlehem almost two thousand years ago under the most humble of circumstances. Now the whole world awaits the celebration of this event. It has influenced for better, the lives of countless millions for all of these intervening years. Leaving dogma for the theologians to ponder, we can evaluate the importance of this birth. A splendid, practical, beneficial religion has evolved. This faith, expressed in several church forms is really a potent living force for world good. In fact it remains the only practical optimistic hope for our future and for the future of the generations yet unborn.

The night grows older and the stars twinkle on in the heavens. The cold blustery winter air plays tag around the houses that are now all asleep. Slowly in the eastern sky there appears a dull grey light.

A very Merry Christmas to you all.
"God bless us every one," said Tiny Tim.

BEWARE! THIN ICE!

Unfortunately every winter thin ice claims many innocent victims. The cracking thin ice opens up so fast to swallow its victims that often it is too late to be of aid. What a tragic ending for a young boy or girl who had their whole life ahead. A taunting dare or a moment of foolishness... or just a chance for shy junior to be one of the gang... whatever the reason, it is the horrible result that evolves from a moment of stupidity, that causes untold heartache.

In skating during the day and particularly at night, restrict your skating to a public place that you know is safe. If there should be a thin ice sign over near the edges do not try and see how close you can skim it without going in. When you look at the frozen river and see glistening inviting ice stretching from shore to shore, don't be deceived. There is a swift current running underneath the ice and chances are that it would not support even the weight of a small child.

Wait until you are sure that the ice is safe. If there is any doubt in your mind as to the security of the ice put your skates over your shoulder and go home.

Babson Discusses Run Down Farms

Babson Authentic Statement, Copyright 1948, Publishers' Financial Bureau, Incorporated

This week's column is not written for farmers, as I know nothing about farming. Nor is it written for those who live in small self-sustaining cities or rural communities. Rather, I am writing for my business friends in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore, St. Louis, Boston, Pittsburgh, and Washington, D. C. Because when World War III does come, some one or more of the 11 cities will suffer a terrible loss of life.

Readers who live in the famous "Magic Circle" are especially fortunate and have nothing to fear. You are in "the richest in time of peace and safest in time of war" of any part of the U. S. Probably every state has some similar safe, productive and attractive sections. Readers who live in such places should be very thankful. With the above introduction I will sail ahead.

For some time our Statistical Organization has been building a branch at New Boston, N. H. for use in case of World War III. We bought an old brick building which we could use for offices and several nearby homes in which we could house a limited number of executives. We believe that many more business concerns in one of these vulnerable cities should do the same thing. They owe it to their customers. Most employers have summer places to which they personally could flee, but such places do not provide an emergency plant or emergency offices.

We, however, have not been content to do only this. Hence, we have been picking up some old farm houses to which the families of our employees could move. These are from one to three miles from our Emergency Plant at New Boston, a distance which could easily be covered with a horse and wagon if no gasoline is available. Such farm houses are well-built with all modern conveniences and would cost $30,000 to build today.

"Old" Boston is a city of about 800,000, and with its close suburbs contains about 2,550,000. The authorities told us that to be absolutely safe we must be about 80 miles away. Hence, for our Emergency Plant, we went north to New Boston, N. H. where there is a bountiful supply of food and fuel which makes it independent of railroad transportation.

In addition to the emergency offices and homes for executives, we are taking another step to protect, in such an emergency, our loyal employees of long service. As an illustration, we last week bought for only $6800 a farm of 183 acres with an old farmhouse of ten rooms, a good barn, electric lights and telephone. It consists of 73 acres of woodland, 70 acres of pasture, and 40 acres of bottom tillage. The place borders a river; a small waterpower is nearby. It is not an investment more than an insurance policy is an investment. Such a farm would give

Legion of Honor To Tire Executive

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Chairman of The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company was recently awarded by the French government the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor in recognition of outstanding service to agriculture throughout the world.

In making the award to Mr. Firestone, J. J. Viala, Consul General of France, who came to Akron for the presentation, said: "I am glad on this occasion to express to you the gratitude of my government for your very fine work towards the improvement of agricultural production the world over, from which my country has greatly benefited."

'Buttons and Bows' KEY WINTER FLOWERS

"FRILLS and flowers" like the present hit-song pines for, naturally form the No. 1 theme of both personal flowers and household decoration this winter holiday season. Current favorite is the "Buttons and Bows" corsage (above), reports floral stylist Allyn Wayne of Florists' Telegraph Delivery Assn. A bright ribbon bow also sets off the gilded birdcage in the floral tablepiece (left). Carnations, pine and holly berries are used in this seasonal novelty. Youth interest, too, is important during the holidays. For this FTD's expert employs a styrofoam "candy cane" in the beautiful mantel or table arrangement shown here, with eucalyptus, frosted bells and candles.

the Board of Aldermen in the furtherance of this program. Accomplishments to date and work contemplated were also discussed.

Chief Purcell spoke on the historical background of the modern Police Department and said that human nature is the basic factor with which the police deal. Requesting the assistance of all Newton citizens in keeping the city a fine place to live, the Chief suggested that each citizen should consider himself a potential member of the Police Department.

President Whiting closed the evening with the announcement that the next meeting is Ladies' Night and will be held on January 20.

Drivers under the influence of liquor were reported in 8 per cent of all fatal accidents.

Would A United States Of Europe Be A Big Step Toward World Peace?

By Mildred Riorden Blake

Mrs. Blake is a member of the Policy Committee, Executive Council and Executive Committee of United World Federalists. She is also a successful business woman, being senior copywriter with Young and Rubicam, New York advertising agency. In 1940 she won the Advertising Awards Medal for "Advertising As a Social Force." She was one of the organizers of World Federalists, U.S.A., one of the five groups that merged in 1947 to form United World Federalists.

A United States of Europe, as proposed by various leaders in both Europe and America, is a step in the right direction and should be given the welcome accorded to any increase in world unity.

But it is no solution to the world's problem of making and keeping the peace. World-wide anarchy can be ended only by a world-wide government. To the degree that a United States of Europe would contribute to the development of world government—and that may be considerable—it will be seen by later generations (if we act in time to have later generations) to be valuable.

The place of the U. S. of Europe may some day be seen to be similar to that of the Mt. Vernon Compact in the creation of our own American Union—a valuable example of cooperation at a difficult point (the relation between the States of Maryland and Virginia) and a precursor of greater unity to come.

Nothing could be more dangerous, however, than for the American people to feel that nothing more is required of them than an amiable blessing upon the efforts of Europeans to federate. In the first place, it is doubtful whether a purely European federation could stand on its economic feet without our active help. None of the experts who have worked out details of the Marshall Plan is optimistic about the economic validity of European federation. They know that as things stand today, the United States must be in the center of that economic structure, or it will collapse before it is half finished. And the buttress on the other side of the building—the agricultural resources of Eastern Europe now controlled by the Soviet Union—this eventual support is equally important. The European Union is thus seen to be what it is, a fragment of a whole.

There is more than a little evasiveness and irresponsibility in the relief with which many Americans greet the United States of Europe idea. It is a case of "Let some one else do the work." But if we allow that attitude to dominate our thinking, we shall find that we have once more sent a boy instead of a man. We have once more been too late with too little.

But if we see the United States of Europe as a step which must immediately be followed by a great and decisive stride toward world government, then the present effort in Europe takes on proper proportions. The difficulties found now foreshadow those to be met in developing world union. And strangely enough, they are more complicated now than they will be in a larger context—that of world union.

The Scandinavian countries, for example, now so jealous and fearful of losing their identity and prerogatives in a European federation, would actually feel less distrust toward the larger union, which would be so much better able to protect every member.

The real trouble with European union is that it is not large enough nor strong enough to be safe. Men may well refuse to venture out on a small, swaying wooden bridge, but drive confidently out over the far greater height of a strong steel structure. World government will find many things easy that were insurmountably difficult for smaller and more timid efforts toward peace—half-measures as to power, like the United Nations—or half-measures as to scope, like the United States of Europe.

Mrs. John S. Olcott with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Hutchinson (Martha Olcott) will spend the holidays with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Newton at 54 Gammons road, Waban. They are motoring from their home in Monroeville, Ohio.

Festive Decorations and Carols Theme At Hospital

Festive decorations, carol singing and other symbols of the holiday season heralded the coming of Christmas this week at Newton-Wellesley Hospital as the busy staff was completing preparations for making it the merriest Christmas possible for patients who must remain in the hospital on Christmas Day.

Santa Claus will visit throughout the hospital with a gift for every patient. These gifts have been made possible by the generosity of the hospital Trustees, who also have remembered every employee at the hospital. The Hospital Aid Association has appropriated a sum earmarked for Christmas gifts for hospitalized children and many other friends of the hospital, both groups and individuals, are making special contributions to brighten the day for those who cannot be at home with their families.

On Christmas Day nurses and doctors will begin carol singing in the early morning for patients throughout the hospital. There will be a special candlelight Christmas Breakfast later for them in the nurses' dining room. Members of the Highland Glee Club also will sing at the Hospital on Christmas morning. They will be served steaming hot coffee and doughnuts in the dining room before they leave the hospital to continue their carol-singing tour.

Holiday activities began Tuesday afternoon with carol singing by the all-girl choir from Grover Cronin's store in Waltham. Santa Claus, who arrived with the choir, brought presents with him for the youngsters in the children's ward. This morning (Thursday), through the courtesy of the West Newton Businessmen's Association, another Santa arrived in the children's ward with his bag of gifts.

Tuesday evening a Christmas party for hospital personnel, sponsored by the Student Council of the School of Nursing, was held in the living room of the nurses' residence and on Wednesday afternoon Miss Mabel McVicker, Director of Nursing Service, gave a tea for members of the faculty of the School of Nursing.

A formal Christmas dance, sponsored by the Student Council of the School of Nursing, will be held December 29 from 9 p.m. to midnight in the living room of the nurses' residence. Jean Chadwick of Taunton, class of 1949, is chairman of the Dance Committee. Patrons and patronesses include Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Director of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and Mrs. Hamilton; Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Clark; Miss McVicker and Miss Charlotte Howard of the School of Nursing faculty.

Bananas Help Build Meal That is Broiled

A broiler meal is a quick meal. Under the heat it goes for a little while and the meal is done! Broiler menus can be just as varied as other kinds. Have you ever tried bananas as a new food to include in a broiler meal? To taste the flavor of a broiled banana is a delightful experience. It's mellow, tantalizingly tropical, and such a good blender with the flavors of other foods!

A happy combination for a broiled meal right now is broiled bananas, broiled tomatoes and hamburger patties. Plenty of excitement in flavor there and all of it so quick, so good, so nourishing! Bananas are very well-rounded nutritionally. They have vitamins A, the B group, and C (ascorbic acid), eleven essential minerals and food energy.

For cooking, as in this broiler meal, select a banana that is not fully-ripe. To tell when bananas are right for cooking, look at the peel. If the peel is all-yellow or green-tipped, the banana is just right for an oven grill.

Banana Mixed Grill
4 hamburger patties, 1 inch thick
4 firm bananas*, peeled
2 large, firm tomatoes, cut in half Melted butter
Salt

* Use all-yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas. Arrange hamburger patties and tomato halves that have been brushed with butter and salted lightly on pre-heated broiler rack. Place about 5 inches below the heat. Broil 6 to 8 minutes or until meat is browned. Turn meat. Brush bananas with butter and sprinkle lightly with salt. Place bananas on rack with meat and tomato halves. Continue broiling about 8 minutes longer or until bananas are tender... easily pierced with a fork. Four servings.

Emblem Of Candles

Sainfoin, or "Holy Hay," is said to have cradled the infant Christ in the manger. The snow-drop is the flower of the Virgin Mary, and is said to be the emblem of the candles she lighted on Christmas.

Social etiquette of the 1880's decreed that elaborate silk-fringed Christmas cards be delivered on Christmas day by uniformed footmen using the family coach.

Reading Yuletide Stories Adds To Family Christmas

The reading of literature's most loved Christmas stories, including the Gospels, is one of the best ways for a family to prepare for the day itself.

A family reading session, planned for the last few days before Christmas, will make it easier for the children to stand the tension of waiting and will add meaning and happy family memories to the occasion.

Christmas is, first of all, religious, and the New Testament accounts of the birth of Jesus ought always to be read first. Both the Christmas tales of Matthew and Luke are beautiful poetry and literature.

Perhaps the most famous Christmas book in the world, after the Gospels, is Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," written in 1843. It is a tale which will be told and retold as long as there is a Christmas. It is profound enough for the most adult taste and it is still a children's classic.

Henry Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man" is another story which has become a Christmas classic. It tells of a fourth wise man who saw the star rising and set out to follow it. The great desire of this pilgrim was denied, yet fulfilled in the denial.

For a good, unoffensive funny story about Christmas try "How Come Christmas?" by Roark Bradford. It concerns the efforts of a group of Negroes to decide which came first, Santa Claus or the little Lord Jesus.

Probably the most famous American Christmas tale is Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Birds' Christmas Carol." There are other American Christmas stories well worth reading, though, such as Louisa May Alcott's "Christmas at Orchard House" and Vincent Starrett's "Snow for Christmas." Christopher Morley's "The Worst Christmas Story" happens to be almost one of the best.

These are just a few of the possibilities for a literary Christmas menu. When it is selected and served to the family circle, have the fireplace going and the tree lights on.

How to Dress Up Your Xmas Tree

Christmas means your home at its gracious best—fragrant with pine boughs and spicy baking, packages piled high and stockings bursting their sides. To help you with your decorations here are a number of interesting suggestions from the Woman's Home Companion.

You can kill two birds with one stone by displaying your card on the Christmas tree. Put a small live tree in a red pot. Then, as the cards come in, tie them on. For front door gaiety, take a small evergreen bough, tie it with a jumbo red bow and then add a child's toy drum. Be sure and leave the sticks attached. It makes a novel way for your friends to announce their arrival.

Give your Christmas tree a new look this year, and incidentally this is a wonderfully inexpensive way to decorate a large tree. Trim it with pine cones that you have brightened by dipping in aluminum paint or flecking with bright colors such as pink, red, yellow. If you coat some of the cones with glue and then sprinkle with colored sparkles they will glow when the tree lights are on.

educated in the public schools of Lawrence, Mass. She graduated from Mt. Holyoke College in 1912. Her training for her work in Guidance was received at Brown University, the Harvard Graduate School of Education, lecture courses at the Judge Baker Center for Guidance, and Boston University where she received her Master of Arts degree in 1923.

Her teaching experience included work in the public schools of Chatham, Mass., and Medford, Mass., Ferry Hall, Chicago, Ill.; Thayer Academy, Braintree, Mass., where she was executive assistant to the headmaster, and Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., where she was Dean of Girls.

For a number of years Miss Riley spent her summers in travel throughout Europe, and during the first World War, she was in foreign service with the YMCA. In the second World War she served for two summers as hostess in the Army Service Club at Camp Myles Standish in Taunton, Mass. During the summer of 1947 she gave a week's intensive course for counselors, deans, and prospective deans at the University of Maine.

She came to Newton High School in February, 1925 as a teacher of English and Mathematics and devoted part of her time to the duties of Visiting Teacher, a new position created to bring the home and the school closer together in the work with pupils on the secondary level.

In 1927 she spent her entire time in the work of Visiting Teacher and developed the work of that office until in 1930 she was made a member of the Administrative staff and became Chairman of Guidance and Adviser of Grade Ten. In 1941 she was given the title of Director of Student Personnel and Guidance and since that time has been responsible for the entire program of guidance.

ance of the high school and Newton Junior College.

The success which Newton High School has enjoyed in the preparation of students for college has been due in great part to her leadership in the maintenance of standards, her periodic visits to colleges, her knowledge of current college requirements, and the great amount of time and attention which she devoted to the individual pupil in helping him decide upon the institution in which he would be happy and successful.

It was also due primarily to her interest and foresight that a curriculum for pupils of limited ability, but of high school age and physical characteristics, was set up in 1932.

Always generous of her time in the field of guidance she was a charter member of the Massachusetts Association of Deans, served on various committees and offices including that of President.

Miss Riley was largely responsible for the establishment of the Peter J. Kuntz Fund for financial assistance to needy students. Under her leadership the fund was established by the high school faculty in honor of a former member of the staff, and has since been maintained by gifts from faculty members. Miss Riley also sponsored the collection of usable second hand clothing for the use of needy students. During the depression the resources of this collection and the Kuntz Fund were of inestimable value in the maintenance of pupil morale and in keeping pupils in school.

Miss Riley made many contributions to her community. Homey Hints for Holiday Meals

Here are a couple of hints to keep in mind when fixing meals during the holiday season. These are the little extras that take meals out of the everyday class.

For a Christmasy-looking salad says the Woman's Home Companion, line a bowl with red and green cabbage leaves, alternating colors. Heap red cole slaw—with apple added—on one side of the bowl, and green slaw—with pineapple added—on the other side. To give fruit salad a festive look stick a small red candle (in a holder) in each portion and light at serving time.

A trick they use in the Northwest is to dip tiny fruitcake cubes in candy-dipping chocolate and trim with silver shot. There's a dessert your youngsters will love. Put marshmallows on apples during the last three minutes of baking. Let melt and run down over the apple. Fix a lot, you'll need them.

FRIENDLY THOUGHTS

The creative ability of children should be developed. Craftsmanship is evidence of the spiritual side of man; an individual's attempt to express himself in terms of beauty as well as utility. Happy are the parents who realize the capacity of their children to learn is the actual measure of budding intelligence.

Trail Tales

By Joe Patenaude

You don't have to dream of a White Christmas anymore! That snow sure was a welcome sight. A little more and the slopes will be in full swing. Very little snow has fallen in New Hampshire as yet, but it shouldn't be long now. I bet you ski fans are eager to see what new equipment Santa will leave this Saturday. I'm looking for some new boots myself.

Here are some fashion tips for you feminine drifters who like to look as well as you ski. A new platinum gray jacket called "Ski Coronet" has navy self cording outlining the armholes and backing the collar. Of Zelan-treated poplin, it is complete with huge, zippered pockets. And don't forget the "Igloo coat" for extra warmth off the slopes. It's made of thickly-lined, water repellent poplin, has button flap pockets, and buckled strap at collar and cuff. Best of all, it retails for under $30. For not-to-cold days a shirt of poplin with a mandarin collar and a vertically-tucked, button front is in order. It is loose fitting enough to go over another shirt if you feel the need, and comes in all colors for only $13. These items are worth looking around for.

For the men there is a twill "year-round" shirt with a wool knit collar and waistband and a small zippered pocket for smokes or change. A swell buy for under $9.

You all know of the work that has been done in the past by The National Ski Patrol System.

Driving Licenses Cover Two Years After January 1

Starting January 1, 1949, Massachusetts motorists, who are renewing their driving licenses, will discover that the period covered will be two years instead of the present one year license and the fee will be $4 instead of the present $2.

This changeover, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King has estimated, will save the State some $750,000 over the first full year of operation.

Registrar King said that there are now more than 1,500,000 licensed drivers in Massachusetts and the amount saved in postage alone would be $45,000 on the initial notification.

King said that fully half of the motorists return their applications to the main office of the registry on Nashua street, and that means that approximately $23,000 will also be saved the state on returning licenses. The remainder, he said, will be saved in paper costs and printing.

In addition to this, King said, the clerical help needed to get these notices and licenses out each year will be put to better use in other places of the registry's routine.

Aside from the state's consideration, motorists will find the "two-year" plan more satisfactory to them as well, the registrar believes.

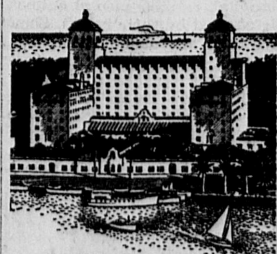

King believes that remembering to renew his license every two years will be less wearing and tearing on motorists than remembering it every year and there is the saving of that extra stamp and money order or check to be considered.

"In other words," Registrar King says, "I think the large majority of Massachusetts motorists will find the new plan more convenient all around."

The registrar pointed out that motorists whose renewals come up before January 1 will continue on the old basis of $2 for one year.

Incidentally, the new application and licenses are a pastel green, but except for that change and the fact that $4 replaces the customary $2, there isn't much difference between the old and the new.

Keep your speed down when driving on icy roads, and don't ever drive faster than 10 to 20 miles an hour.

Roast Duck to Grace Many A Christmas Dinner Table

By DOROTHY JAMES

This is the season of the year, as you householders make your busy and happy preparations for Christmas, to demonstrate your cooking magic and to show off your pet culinary tricks.

Here are a few last-minute ideas and suggestions which might prove helpful if you haven't completed your final plans for the Yuletide feast on the holiday of holidays.

For the new bride and other small families as well, who have been wondering how they could possibly use up a whole turkey, we have some truly wonderful news.

Did you know that you may buy a package of turkey with only the drumsticks and thigh, a bundle of giblets, which have been quick frozen, all wrapped up with complete cooking instructions?

There are also packages which contain only white meat for those who prefer it to the darker portions of the holiday bird. So don't think you will have to get along without the traditional Christmas turkey just because your family happens to be a small one.

Duckling is to be the choice of many of our neighbors as their Christmas piece de resistance, judging from the number of requests we have received for the directions for the proper method of preparing that bird. We can understand why because the fine flavor of choice duckling meat is perfect foil for traditional holiday feeds, and there is little left-over meat to test the homemaker's ingenuity.

ROAST DUCK

Remove the pin feather and singe the duck. Wash thoroughly. Fill with your favorite stuffing. Sew up the opening. Place a rack on the roasting pan, and put the duck on the rack. Season with salt and pepper. Add about one cup of water and baste the bird frequently. We use an oven with a temperature reading 400 degrees F. After a 20-minute preliminary cooking, allow 20 minutes per pound of duck.

STUFFING FOR DUCKLING
Bread, cornbread or rice stuffing is good with duck. Many prefer the addition of chopped apples, with raisins, prunes or apricots, or chopped oranges. Some like a stuffing well bolstered with onions. Some families prefer an apple-celery-prune stuffing with just enough bread or cracker crumbs to hold the fruit together. If supplies permit, a couple of eggs whipped in with the fruit give more substance to the finished product.

"Here is an excellent stuffing recipe."

APRICOT RICE STUFFING
2 tablespoons butter (or fortified margarine)
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup mushrooms
1/2 cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning water

1 cup sliced dried apricots (1/2 pound)
Melt butter in heavy skillet. Brown celery, onion and mushrooms in butter. Add rice. Brown until rice is a deep golden color. Add salt and poultry seasoning. Cover with water until water is one-half inch above rice. Cover and steam 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Add apricots and mix. Stuff bird just before roasting.

Whether it is duckling or turkey that you have chosen for your Christmas dinner, let us add one word of caution. Do not stuff the bird until you are ready to pop it into the oven. The stuffing may be prepared early and kept in the refrigerator until you are ready to use it again. Be sure you remove all the uncooked stuffing from the cavity. Keep both the bird and the stuffing refrigerated for safe, savory encore service.

So many people like to dress the duckling up with a delicious orange sauce. Mrs. L. of Roslindale has sent us her pet recipe for just this occasion. It sure enough is a yummy one. Why not try it? You won't be the least bit sorry.

ORANGE SAUCE FOR ROAST DUCKLING
3 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup water
4 tablespoons fat from roast duck
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons of currant or port wine jelly
1 cup orange juice
1 cup orange sections
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Add grated orange rind to water; bring to boiling point. Simmer for three minutes; strain liquid. Heat fat; blend in flour. Then blend in jelly; gradually add water in which rind was simmered, and orange juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Add orange sections; heat. Season with salt and pepper. Serve hot with roast duck. It serves six.

Thank you Mrs. L., I'm delighted that you shared this elegant sauce with us. Your stuffing is something every duck should really try. It gives the duck an exciting flavor.

SPICY STUFFING FOR DUCK
3 cups toasted bread crumbs

- 1 orange rind grated
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1/2 cup cubed oranges
- 3 cups cubed apples
- 3 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients and fill the cavity without packing the dressing. It makes enough stuffing for a five-pound duck, dressed but not drawn, or a four-pound dressed, drawn duck. Drawn weight is about 1/5 less than dressed weight.

Mrs. J.'s contribution this week is a luscious fruit cocktail.

AVOCADO AND GRAPEFRUIT COCKTAIL

- 1 avocado
- lemon juice
- 2 grapefruit
- powdered sugar

Cut avocado in halves and remove the stone. Peel and cut pulp into cubes. Sprinkle with a little lemon juice. Remove pulp from the grapefruit and cut in pieces. Sweeten slightly with powdered sugar; combine the two fruits, chill, and serve in glasses, garnish with a green cherry. Serves six.

ORANGE CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons light corn syrup
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or fortified margarine
- 6 to 8 sweet potatoes or yams

Combine first seven ingredients and pour over peeled, uncooked sweet potatoes; arrange in casserole or baking dish. Bake covered in a moderate oven 400 degrees until tender, about 30 to 40 minutes. Remove cover last ten minutes to brown. You may place marshmallow on the top when you remove the lid. It's an excellent addition to the flavor as well as the appearance.

"Your sweet potato recipe is a happy addition to any meal. Mrs. M. L. of Roslindale. But it is a specially good one at this season."

Indoor Track Season To Open At Navy Building

The indoor track season will open with a bang at the U. S. Navy Building, 495 Summer St., South Boston, on Saturday, January 8, 1949, at 1:30 p.m. For 12 years this meet has been conducted in the Malden High School gym, but so many athletes have entered, this affair has been transferred to the Navy Building.

The N.E.A.A.U. Development and Track Committees are offering for the novice high school boys, the 60-yd. dash; 440, 880 and 1 mile run. These events will be open to high school athletes who have never placed 1-2-3 in any State or Interscholastic track meets. A junior high school 60-yd. dash for boys in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades, including freshmen in the 4-year high schools, along with a special U.Y.O. 60-yd. dash, will fill out the high school program.

The open A.A.U. high school and college events will be 60-yd. dash, 440, 880 and 1 mile run, and a special 1-mile handicap walk. High school athletes who have won 1st, 2nd, 3rd places in the State Meet are eligible for these events, along with Service men. There will also be a special 60-yd. dash and 30-yd. sack race for the Army, Coast Guard, Marines and Navy.

The track is 176 yds. to one lap or 10 laps to the mile. No spike shoes allowed. N. E. A. A. U. Development medals will be awarded for first 3 places in all events. No competitors may enter more than 2 events. All high school and A.A.U. competitors must be registered with Herb Holm, Sec., N.E.A.A.U., 294 Washington St., Boston. Entries close Monday evening, January 3, 1949, with Ralph H. Colson, Chairman, Track & Field Committee, 24 Holmfield avenue, Mattapan 26, Mass.

This meet is sanctioned by the Principals' Association. Uranium deposits have been discovered near Lake Superior.

Junior Red Cross tray favors are pouring into the Chapter House and they too are being sent to Cushing Hospital and the Peabody Home for Crippled Children. Little Santa Claus baskets, filled with candy, add a bright touch to any invalid's tray.

Junior Red Cross has also presented a very beautiful creche to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. This is the beginning of a project wherein they hope to add another creche each year until every floor in the hospital has one.

In the meantime the Senior volunteers are helping in innumerable ways at both Cushing and Newton-Wellesley Hospitals. Gray Ladies are doing the many little errands which help so much to build up the morale at this season of the year. Nurses' Aides too are relieving the professional nurses of many non-professional but important tasks. Gray Ladies are helping to decorate the trees and Motor Service is transporting both volunteers and gifts.

Several organizations have contributed towards gifts for the women patients at Cushing Hospital as well as those in the TB ward.

Newton Red Cross is at work on both the national and local levels as is evidenced by the following report: To provide real Yuletide warmth and color for the 150,000 hospitalized servicemen and veterans and for occupation troops far from home, American Red Cross chapters and field directors in close cooperation with civic and religious organizations are putting finishing touches to Christmas programs as varied as individual ingenuity can make them.

With many occupation troops spending the holidays away from home for the first time, Red Cross workers abroad have completed plans for hospital ward decorations, contests, parties, distribution of gifts, and many other events. Christmas decoration kits and thousands of gifts sent overseas as early as last September, the organization's national headquarters said today.

At hospitals in the Los Angeles area, movie and radio stars will help entertain patients at special Christmas shows. Red Cross chapters of Metropolitan New York, with the co-operation of florists, will deliver a Christmas plant to every hospitalized serviceman.

Gift-wrapping patients' presents to those at home is a service offered by many chapters. Nearly a million Christmas cards donated by the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, already have been distributed by chapters to patients in military and VA hospitals.

Servicemen at military installations in this country also are being remembered. At Fort Meyer, Virginia, teenage carolers will tour the post in a trolley on Christmas Eve. At other posts across the country Christmas dinner tables will be dressed with holiday trimmings, menu cards and mess halls will be decorated, and entertainment will be provided.

Special supplies for servicemen and their dependents on the high seas on Christmas have been placed aboard ships, while the Seattle, Washington Chapter has made provisions for evacuees and their children en route from China to this country.

Free toy shops for underprivileged children are a special Junior Red Cross project in a number of cities. Many gift boxes which they packed earlier this year will be distributed to children overseas, and a special shipment of 10,000 Christmas stockings has been provided for children in displaced persons camps in Europe.

Warren Junior High School

As we write our last news story for the year 1948 the Warren Junior High School Community wishes to extend to all best wishes for a pleasant and happy holiday season.

For several weeks the art classes have been busy at work on Christmas posters and decorations; English classes have been reading, studying and acting out some of the favorite Christmas stories; boys in industrial arts classes have been finishing articles to be used as Christmas gifts; girls in home economics classes have learned how to make Christmas goodies; and from music halls have floated strains of Christmas favorites played and sung by the musical organizations.

This week, as a climax to these activities, classrooms and corridors are a blaze of color with Christmas trees, Christmas scenes, and Christmas decorations. On Wednesday morning the glee clubs sang carols in the corridors. At 10:30 that last day of school the student body listened to a most unusual assembly by Miss Edith Marshall Clarke, a musician who at the age of five gave a concert in a Boston theatre and since then has played in every state in the union. For an hour Miss Clarke entertained the assembly with selections on the English hand bells, the xylophone, and the French lyre. This special Christmas assembly, planned by Ralph Acker, chairman of the assembly committee, was made possible through funds contributed by the Warren Parent-Teachers Association.

At the close of the assembly the entire school joined in 15 minutes of carol singing accompanied by the school orchestra under the direction of Vincent J. Marotto.

Nut-Bowl Filled From Many Lands

Nuts from all over the world go into your nut-bowl at Christmas. Like Christmas traditions, the nuts so popular at this time of year are a mixture of many varieties and different histories. The English walnut, for instance, is not English at all. It originated in Asia centuries ago and was called "the food of the gods."

The round little filbert and the almond came from the Old World. Other nuts, so familiar at Christmas, the hickory nut, the black walnut and the chestnut, to say nothing of the pecan, are strictly American. The pecan is native to America and is found nowhere else. Two other American nuts worthy of mention are the chestnut and the butternut.

ings has been provided for children in displaced persons camps in Europe.

Ben Bates, Santa Claus, "Jim Harrington" was loaded for fun; big and round, and no pillows either; he captivated the 12-year-olds as well as the younger boys. Boy Scout calendars and grab bag gifts were handed to all Cubs. Then the "Good Will" committee took over and served bushels of Hoodsies to girls and boys, dads and moms; and everybody. The 80 dozen home made cookies by mothers were whisked up in no time. All that was left was a trail of paper in the gym, but we do better as we grow older. Some said it was the proper approach to the coming Yuletide season.

Two Kittens Go To Cairo

This is the story of two white furry kittens that took a trip by air from Newton to Cairo, Egypt, and later came safely back again. One kitty, who had been a favorite of a four-year-old boy named Jeffrey, had been hugged by him every night when he went to bed. When he flew to Cairo in July, 1946, with his daddy and mamma, he took this kitty with him on the plane, and it was with him day and night. He cuddled it so much that the white fur began to wear off, and his "gargie," as he called grandma, received word that perhaps Jeffrey would like a new kitten for Christmas. So she went to Charlene's Toyland in Newton, where Kitty came from, and ordered a new kitty just like the one Jeffrey had. Charlene's was very accommodating and put the new kitty in a box, so it could be sent safely by airplane to Cairo, and it arrived there on Christmas morning just in time to be on Jeffrey's tree. Now he had two kittens, one with the hair almost worn off, and the new one white and furry.

Of course, Jeffrey's Christmas was celebrated in December, just as if he was in Newton, for all the American and English speaking people followed their national custom. The native Moslem people had already celebrated their Christmas in August, at which time they fasted for 30 days from 5 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening, which in Egypt is from sunrise to sunset. Then after 10 o'clock each evening, they spend the rest of the night feasting, and at the end of the 30 days came their Christmas.

Now to return to Jeffrey's Christmas. His tree was a sort of native garden hemlock bush growing in a pot. It was decorated with strings of popcorn and bits of cotton batting. There were no trees decorated with electric lights because the bulbs cost $4 a piece. Jeffrey received many presents, though his tricycle and other toys were all made in England. But he did have the new kitty from Newton and his mamma said it certainly made them think of "home." As poinsettia bushes grew in their yard, the house was decorated with about 100 cut blooms.

When Jeffrey started home on the plane in July, 1947, his mamma attended to bringing back the old kitten, but, of course, Jeffrey carried the new one with him. The kitten went with him over the Mediterranean Sea to Rome and flew over the Alps to Geneva; it saw Paris and kitty even went up with him in the Eiffel Tower. It saw Shannan, Ireland, and he hugged it tight on the big hop across the Atlantic Ocean to New Foundland. When Jeffrey arrived at the East Boston airport, and came out of the big plane, he wore a red Egyptian fez on his head, and under his arm he held tightly the Christmas kitty that had come from Charlene's Toyland in Newton, and had been to Cairo and returned safely home. He still has the two kittens, but the white furry kitty is the one that still goes to bed with him every night.

The New Year

As the old year passes it is fun to predict for the new one. The stock market will go up and down, in fact it is very apt to fluctuate. The weather at times will be clear to partly cloudy with variable cloudiness. The Fourth of July will come on the fourth. There will be no presidential campaigns in the United States during the year and hence Mr. Gallup and his cohorts will not have a change of complexion. The Democrats will take the credit for all the good things and blame all the unfavorable ones on the Republicans. The Republicans, if there are any left by that time, will take credit and place the blame in reverse ratio. Labor will ask for more work and less pay; no, that is an error, but let us not xxxxxxxxxx it out as it produces too much wear and tear on the typewriter ribbon. The street department will be blamed for the snow storms. The school department will be censured if Johnny does not bring his report card home with all A's. It will be the hottest August fourth, sixth, or eighth on record; give us a little leeway as even the meteorologists have erred at times. The farmer will want higher prices and the consumer will demand cheaper living costs. The government will suggest that the manufacturer pay more wages and charge less. We will have a world series and the ball parks will be crowded. More automobiles will be produced and more smashes will result. It will be fine weather on Cape Cod for a holiday. All that will be left of the New Look will be the let down! Styles in ladies' hats will be varied. There will be alarming news in all the newspapers on November twenty-ninth that there are only twenty-one more shopping days left until Christmas. Much will be said about Christmas turkey and worst of all, much will be printed about New Year's Resolutions!

We wish each and every reader a most happy and prosperous New Year!

How You Can Probably Live Longer

Figures recently released show that 1,445,370 Americans died in 1947, with 460,580 passing on because of heart diseases and 189,811 dying because of cancer.

We call attention to these figures because, obviously, if the individuals now living take proper precautions to prevent their death from heart diseases or cancer, they will have a much better chance to reach old age.

While no cures have been developed for either of these human killers, everybody knows that one suffering from heart diseases should take precautions against over-exercise, over-eating and other excesses. In some forms of heart trouble, proper diet and rigorous self-control will enable the victim to get along for many years.

In connection with cancer, for which there is no known cure, individuals could greatly reduce the death toll if they exercise prudence and insist upon regular physical examinations. Doctors tell us that early detection of cancer often enables them to save lives but if the cancer is not discovered until it is in its serious stages, the prospect for life is scant.

By comparison with these modern killers of men and women, the death toll from highway accidents, which is entirely too large, seems small. In 1947, 32,697 lives were lost in automobile accidents. Interesting also is the total figure for homicides, which, in 1947, accounted for only 8,555 deaths.

U. S. Should Pay Its Leaders

Pointing out that the Federal Government "is the largest single enterprise in the world," Budget Director James E. Webb recently told a Senate sub-committee that the Government can only secure the "best brains and ability" by paying better salaries in the future.

Mr. Webb called attention to the fact that many competent men had been compelled to resign their governmental positions because the compensation was not comparable to that obtained in private employment. He was speaking in favor of a bill sponsored by several congressmen to increase top level salaries in the governmental establishment. The proposed measure would raise Cabinet pay from $15,000 to $20,000 a year and make increases for executives just under Cabinet rank which would, in some cases, almost double the present compensation.

We are thoroughly in favor of the increase in the salaries of top officials because it should be obvious that the Government of the United States should not require heavy financial sacrifice from those who give it top direction. Many able and conscientious administrators have been forced to resign their Federal positions because of lucrative offers of private employment, which, in consideration of their family and future security, they could not reject.

ICE ACCIDENT PREVENTION and RESCUE

Springs bubbling up from lake or river bottoms will prevent water from freezing. Such openings in an ice field are known as "air holes." Streams, wind swept lakes, tidal rivers and salt water are slow to freeze and dangerous except after extremely cold weather.

4 inches of new ice is safe for a crowd—Protect yourself and those who might follow you by staying ashore until it is tested and certified for skating—Ice is unsafe after mid-winter and Spring thaws.

Ready Rescue Equipment.

The Ice Cross is a good rescue device.

Carry ice awls for self rescue. Roll to solid ice as soon as out of hole.

Awls are carried in pocket.

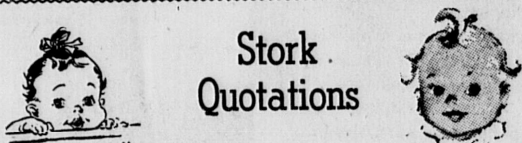

Carry a small, strong pole when crossing ice on foot.

In Human Chain Rescue men spread their weight over a large surface.

Leave Monday For African Tour Duty

Two officials of the American Board of Foreign Missions, Boston, Dr. John A. Reuling of West Newton, and Dr. David McKeith, Jr. of Waban, are flying by Pan-American Airways, Monday afternoon, from New York bound for Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, Africa, on an administrative tour of the work of the American Board in Africa and the Near East.

"Africa today is seething with discontent," says Dr. Reuling, who is American Board Secretary for Africa. "If the present problems in Africa are not settled in a Christian way, blood will be shed and will cover the whole world as did the blood of Asia and Europe. It is quite evident that a most important element in keeping the African people on an even keel is the fact that a great proportion of their leaders are Christian men and women."

Dr. McKeith, who is the Executive Vice-President-Elect of the American Board, left a successful 16-year pastorate of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn., for this post, on November 1. The American Board is the oldest foreign missionary society in America and was founded in 1810. This will be his first official glimpse of his new world parish. Dr. Reuling, who is a layman, was for 12 years a Christian educator among the Bantus of South Africa under the American Board and just prior to being called to the job of American Board Africa Secretary he served three years during World War II as the President of Northland College in Ashland, Wisconsin. This will be his second administrative visit to Africa since 1946.

Dr. McKeith and Dr. Reuling will visit the schools, hospitals and self-supporting African churches of the American Board in Angola, Southern Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa,

Most of its employees in the general office are residents of Waltham and Newton, and no changes in the personnel are contemplated.

The company will continue to maintain its Newton operational division and garage at 2336 Commonwealth avenue under the direction of its Newton Superintendent, M. L. Cronin.

December 28, 1948

Dear Mrs. Patenaude:

Three weeks ago you told about the Bayberry candle arrangements we were selling at that time. We were so rushed with calls for these candles that we sold out in a few days. Many of your readers were disappointed, as we were not able to order another shipment. We would like to thank them, however, and assure them that next year there will be plenty for all. We will appreciate it if you will extend our sincere regrets that we were not able to serve all of your readers. Thank you.

Sincerely,
(Miss) Martie O'Donnell

Landlord and Tenant: Repairs—Fire

By Arthur W. Blakemore, Attorney

(The right to print, or reprint, any or all of these articles, is prohibited without permission of the author)

THERE IS A common saying that the landlord is bound to keep in repair the outside of a leased building and the tenant to repair the inside. This is not the law, but responsibility for repairs should be carefully settled in the lease, and in the absence of a special agreement the landlord is not bound to make common passageways or other portions of the premises safe.

All well-drawn leases contain a clause relieving the tenant from payment of rent in case of destruction of the premises by fire or other casualty, as it is the law that such destruction does not relieve the tenant in the absence of an agreement to that effect.

This rule of the common law is, of course, so unjust as to shock the judgment of any fair-minded person. It is one of our inheritances from the English common law, brought to the colonies, and arises from the fact that the courts in England in former days were absolutely controlled by landowners, who naturally made the rules in favor of the landlords as far as possible.

The whole law of landlord and tenant is permeated with injustices for this historical reason, and should be studied with this in mind.

On Tuesday, December 28, Mrs. McKittrick had been a resident of Newton for 22 years. She leaves two sons, Dr. Leona McKittrick of Brookline and Dr. John B. McKittrick of West Newton, and four daughters, Mrs. Karl J. Goethal of West Newton, Mrs. Harry T. Johnson of Wilmette, Ill., Mrs. Frank W. Hazel of Newtonville and Mrs. Howard E. Riordan of Erie, Ill.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in Grace Episcopal church, Newton.

Edward M. Bagley

Funeral services for Edward M. Bagley, husband of Catherine C. (Nugent) Bagley and father of Patrolman Richard Bagley of the Newton Police Department, were held Tuesday morning from his home, 214 Adams avenue, West Newton. A high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Bernard's church by Rev. John A. Saunders.

Representations were present from the Newton Police Department and the Newton School Department.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham, with prayers by Fr. Saunders.

The station uses a Raytheon FM transmitter at the same site in Burlington which serves also for WLAW's 50,000 watt AM transmitter.

The additional or full power frequency modulation broadcasting to WLAW's facilities comes on the 11th anniversary of "The Voice of ABC in Industrial New England." From a 1,000 watt daytime station on December 19, 1937, WLAW has become in the meantime, with its 50,000 watts, "the most powerful radio station in New England."

Parents Should Supervise Children's Skating Areas

The incidence of several first-of-the-season skating accidents is evidence that parents should have closer supervision over the holiday activities of their children and permit them to skate and slide only in safe areas, warned Edgar F. Copell, President-Director of the Massachusetts Safety Council.

"There are many young children who have received their first skates as Christmas presents this year and these should bring pleasure and healthful exercise, not tragedy and accidents," said Mr. Copell. "If parents will take a minute or two to check with their police to make sure that certain frozen areas are really safe, they will not only insure peace of mind for themselves but also give their children every chance of having fun with safety."

"The same care should be observed with sliding areas as soon as the snow comes," he said. "Because children will be waiting to try out their sleds whenever and wherever there is sufficient cover to slide. Parents should watch local newspaper bulletins and heed radio announcements for restricted streets but, better still, they should urge their children to use off-the-highway coasting areas whenever possible. Collisions between motor vehicles and on highways in Massachusetts resulted in the deaths of five children and injuries to 205 others up to 15 years old during 1947. Greater care in the selection of areas used and observance of a few simple rules of safety will be the greatest factors in reducing such tragedies this year."

Copell listed the following helpful hints for winter recreation for adults as well as children:

1. Three inches of hard, sound ice for small groups and four inches for large groups is usually sufficient for safety but don't judge ice by thickness alone. Ice a foot thick may not hold a child if the ice is sun-rotted.
2. Skating surfaces that have been cleared of snow contribute to safety since snow melts ice and a snowy surface may prove dangerous.
3. Avoid cracked areas; they are likely to be very treacherous.
4. Where possible, select only flooded fields or shallow ponds where the water is only a foot or two deep.
5. Do not let children skate alone on an unfamiliar pond.
6. Do not skate at night unless the rink or pond is adequately lighted.
7. Don't skate fast or race with others in crowded areas. Beginners particularly should stay away from experienced, faster skaters.
8. When carrying skates, it is wise to cover the blades with a scarf or other protection to avoid injury should an unexpected fall occur.
9. Skate only where there is sufficient emergency equipment to be used in case of an accident; this should include at least one of the following items: rope, life buoy, ladder, plank, long branches.
10. No one should remove or use for play purposes any such equipment; it has been placed there for purposes of rescue and it might have to be used to save your own life or that of your child.
11. In rescuing a victim, do not advance too near the cracked or open spot. Lie flat on the ice and use the "human chain" method or push a ladder, life buoy, long scarf or stout branch out to where the victim can grasp it and pull himself up and over the thin edges to safety. If an exceptionally cold day, the victim should put his water-soaked mittens on the ice so that they will freeze, anchoring his hands to the ice until help arrives.
12. Never hook rides on vehicles while using skates and sleds. It is extremely treacherous.

"God" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, January 2. Golden text: "As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the Lord is tried; he is a buckler to all them that trust in him. For who is God, save the Lord? and who is a rock, save our God?" (II Samuel 22:31, 32).

Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted above all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thine reign over all, and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all" (I Chronicles 29:11, 12). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is true but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows" (p. 275).

3. For severe snow and ice conditions, use tire chains—steel tire chains not only provide "go" traction, but also reduce stopping distances of cars and trucks 40 to 70 per cent on snow and ice.

4. Be sure windshield wipers and defroster are working properly.

5. Have your brakes equalized. Brakes that are not equal will grab and swerve your car more easily on snow and ice.

6. Be sure your lights are properly aimed. Never drive so fast that you can't stop within the distance you can see.

7. Never stomp on brakes to stop on ice. Stomping brakes causes them to lock, which may throw a car into a skid. Remember that good tire treads help on wet or dry pavement, but cannot be relied upon for stopping on packed snow or ice. Nor will "rubber chains" help on ice. Tests have proved rubber chains actually increase braking distance on ice.

In listing the rules, Chief Purcell said that January and February are the worst months for severe weather and road conditions. "A recent report by the National Safety Council," Chief Purcell added, "shows that 65 per cent of all winter traffic accidents happened on ice and snow. The principal causes were lack of traction and poor visibility. So, if our drivers will just be a little more thoughtful and observe these seven driving rules, we'll have less accidents and fewer people going to the hospital."

Newton Teen-agers Invited to Attend

A gala program is in progress for the initial broadcast of Teen Routine, a brand new half-hour show to be aired over Radio Station WCOP every Saturday commencing Jan. 8 from 10:30 to 11 a.m.

Already such notables as Gov.-elect Paul A. Dever and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston have been invited, along with the radio critics of every major Boston newspaper.

The show, which proved to be a favorite amongst the high school "set," is the product of a group of intelligent ambitious youngsters who belong to Junior Achievement. The aim of Junior Achievement, a national youth organization, is to educate today's young people to our system of "free enterprise." This aim is accomplished by means of individual companies set up on standard organizational lines; in brief they are miniature companies. The company of young people which will produce this particular show call themselves the Student Broadcasting Company. In fact, its youthful president is Donald Howard of 30 Churchill street, Newtonville.

The format of the program will be constructed around local high school news plus sports and fashion news. They will also have a favorite record of the week along with interviews with well-known celebrities of interest to teen-agers.

Newton teen-agers who might like to attend the opening of this broadcast designed especially for them can obtain their free tickets at WCOP at 485 Joylston street, Boston, any day next week.

One more thing: if you have anything of interest happening around your school club or locality just sit down, write it out and mail it to Teen Routine c/o WCOP, Boston.

REV. JAMES E. WALTER

"The heart of America is generous. Most people want to practice the spirit of the Good Samaritan but they need tangible and personal occasions for taking part financially in the worldwide problems of helping others help themselves. Thoughtful Americans are expressing their gratitude to God and their sympathy toward their fellowmen through increased giving to missions at home and overseas," says Rev. James E. Walter, D.D., Project Secretary of the Missions Council of Congregational Christian Churches in America, who will speak Wednesday afternoon, January 5th at 2:30 before the Auburndale Women's Association in the First Congregational Church of Auburndale on "Ryder Memorial Hospital in Puerto Rico."

"We are all rather tired of reading about China's troubles," said Director Jack Conway.

"In fact, China makes us feel like the lady."

"She visited a crystal gazer, and gazing into his crystal the man said:

"I see — yes, I see — I see buried treasure."

"Well, never mind about that," said the lady. "It's probably my husband's first wife. Believe me, I know all about her! Now get on with your crystal gazing!" — Philadelphia Bulletin.

Purposes Of Expectant Fathers Course Announced

The Red Cross-YMCA course for expectant fathers starts next Tuesday evening, January 4, at 7:30 p.m., at the Newton YMCA, 276 Church Street, Newton Corner. Class sessions will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, January 4, 6, 13, 18, 19, and 20 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Registrations are now being accepted in the Men's Division Office of the YMCA, or by telephoning Bigelow 4-6050.

This course is for fathers or any adult person who may be responsible for the welfare of the new mother. There will be: question and answer periods, with open discussion; demonstrations and practice in handling the infant; and suggestions and plans for making some needed equipment.

Here is what you will learn: Before the baby comes—how the baby is created; the importance of early physical examination and continuous medical supervision; normal bodily changes during pregnancy; keeping the home atmosphere attractive and cheerful by better understanding of pregnancy; and supplies for the new baby.

Baby's birth—how to recognize signs of approaching labor; how the baby is born; and the importance of prompt registration of the baby's birth.

When fathers help—changing, bathing, and handling the new baby; daily care and understanding of baby's development to develop good behavior patterns; the importance of immunization and protection against communicable disease; and the importance of regular medical examinations.

The family and the community—your responsibility to the community; the importance of health regulations; how the community protects the family health; and the prevention of communicable disease.

At no time in a man's life can he be more important than when he becomes a father—if he knows what it's all about. Every man owes it to his wife, his baby, and his community to be equipped with the knowledge given in this Red Cross-YMCA course. It's easy! It's interesting! It's important.
